$25,000 for a Letter
Respect the Cow
Senator Norris' Notion
Hearing Without Sound

— By Arthur Brisbane —

A LETTER WRITTEN by Thomas Jefferson, describing the drafting of the Declaration of Independence, the New York conspiracy against George Washington and the campaign in Canada, has been sold for $25,000, highest price ever paid for a Thomas Jefferson letter.

It isn't as important to this age, and its raging controversy, as a letter that Jefferson wrote to Yancey, recommending a British brewer to the Assembly of Virginia, and saying

"I wish to see this beverage (beer) become common, instead of the whiskey, which kills one-third of our citizens, and ruins their families."

It would surprise Jefferson to learn that, with the best of intentions, prohibition has driven out beer, and made whiskey, once more, the national drink, killing many citizens.

When you see a cow, contentedly changing grass into milk, or mournfully mooing for her calf, make a respectful bow. For she, the cow, is "the biggest industry" in the United States.

Talking to the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, Thomas H. McInerney shows that the value of wealth produced by the American cow amounts to four billion dollars a year. It is an industry greater than steel, greater than automobiles, by far.

Mr. McInerney, who is the president of the National Dairy Products Corp., selling 100,000,000 pounds of butter a year, and $400,000,000 worth of all milk products, believes that some of the money and labor saving devices now applied to other industries can be applied to milk production, and proposes to help that along.

It may surprise you to know that the fountain pen in your waistcoat pocket is probably made of milk, all but the metal part.

Senator Norris thinks our people should do a few things for themselves, threatens to force an extra session, unless fair hearing is given to his ideas.

These include the notion that the people, having spent hundreds of millions on Muscle Shoals, should own that enterprise.

Senator Norris thinks that if the people are good enough to pay for a thing, they are also good enough to own it after they have paid for it.

Others, "more conservative," think the people should pay for a great undertaking and then private individuals should step in, own it, and sell power and fertilizer, if any, and sell it to people at the highest price the traffic will bear.

The fact that Canada operates power companies owned by the people, and incidentally sells the power at a profit from Niagara to Canadians for half the price that Americans pay to private companies on our side of the falls, may have some effect in the Norris argument.

Vibrations, producing no sound that the ear perceives, are, nevertheless, "heard" within the human brain.

Sergius P. Grace, vice-president of the Bell Telephone laboratories, shows that the brain can be made to hear what the ears do not hear, the owner of the brain beating time to music produced by electrical vibrations.

That is something to puzzle evolutionists.

When the late J. Pierpont Morgan was in his prime, and Thomas F. Ryan was gathering up New York street car lines with patient perseverance, Mr. Morgan said of Ryan:

"He can be the richest man in the world, if he cares to take the trouble."

T. F. Ryan didn't become the richest man in the world, but did fairly well. The fortune that he left now pays, to New York state alone, an inheritance tax of more than $21,000,000.

Mr. Ryan got rich because he had imagination. Also for several other reasons.

He bought diamond mines in Africa, and solved the risk of loss in transit by bringing the diamonds out of Africa in flying machines.

At London's round table conference, Hindus and Mohammedans, discussing home rule, that India will not get, applauded loudly at one stage in the talk.

Somerville Loses to Lynn English

Lynn English defeated Somerville, 19 to 13, at Lynn today.

Lynn English and Somerville high school battled here today in a contest for charity and one that was expected to settle the battle for the schoolboy title.

Somerville took the lead in the first period when Vitiello, Somerville quarterback, plunged over the line for a score after a parade by his team.

Art Jannell evened it up in the second period when he raced 40 yards for a score. Both teams missed the point after touchdowns and were tied at half-time.

Lynn English came back to take the lead in the third session when a pass, Moriarity to Hussey, was good for 40 yards and a score. Lynn converted the point to lead 13-6.

Colbert Reels Off Eight Yards for B. C.

PURPLE SCORES ON LOYOLA

Worcester, Nov. 22 (AP)—Capt. Jack McEwan's Holy Cross Crusaders clashed with Loyola of Baltimore today on a day that was spring-like. McEwan sent his reserves against the southerners, who were at their strongest for the first time this season. The Holy Cross regulars were ready to enter the game at any moment.

FIRST PERIOD

The visitors received and with Ryan on the receiving end carried to the Holy Cross 30-yard line with forward passes. The Purple took the ball on downs and drove to the Loyola 25-yard line where an intercepted forward broke up the attack. Dalhaire kicked.

Line plays gave a first down. Kelley made another at the 28-yard

B. C. Batters B. U. Grid Team at Fenway Park

Fenway Park, Nov. 22—The Boston University eleven fought valiantly, but could not check the attack of a strong Boston College eleven here today.

The Eagles had a 21 to 1 lead on B. U. at the half. The B. C. offense netted the Eagles still another score in the third period.

FIRST PERIOD

Boston University won the toss and B. C. kicked off to B. U.'s 45-yard line. After three shots failed to gain Leguern kicked to B. C. who allowed the ball to roll to B. C. 18 yard line. A fifteen yard penalty for clipping placed B. C. on the one yard line. Colbert, kicked out to his own 43 yard line. A forward pass failed to gain. A pass from Leguern gained 9 yards. B. C. held and took the ball on downs on their 35-yard line.

Kelley made 8 and Colbert a first down. Marr picked up 4 and then 16 for another first down. Colbert's pass to Antos was incomplete and Marr and Kelley brought the ball to the B. U. 19-yard line.

The B. U. line held fast on its 5-

Speculators Seek Big Prices for Tickets

By BILL GRIMES

Yale Bowl New Haven, Ct., Nov. 22—In spite of the enormous seating capacity of the Yale bowl, thousands were unable to obtain tickets today and the speculators were demanding exorbitant prices for the duests. The prices ranged from $30 to $100 per pair and it was a case of take them at those prices or leave them.

TOO HOT FOR PLAYERS

During the morning, the sky was overcast and threatening but just before game time, the sun put in an appearance. The weather is warm, muggy in fact, and not exactly suitable for the contesting teams but ideal for the non-combatants, who are packed into every available seat in this gigantic oval. There is a puffy southwest wind blowing diagonally over the arena but it is scarcely noticeable on the playing field, except in the goal line areas.

BARRY WOOD PASSES TO HUGULEY FOR BOTH CRIMSON SCORES

By James L. Kilgallen

Yale Bowl, New Haven, Conn., Nov. 22 (INS)—Before a magnificent crowd of nearly 78,000 persons, including the elite of the college world, Yale and Harvard, football rivals since 1875, clashed on the hallowed turf of the Bowl this afternoon in one of those traditional encounters that sets the blood in motion and accelerates the old heart beat.

Yale was the 7 to 5 betting favorite, but it was difficult to tell which team was the sentimental favorite.

For, all around the open-faced arena the eye was greeted by great splotches of color—the Crimson of Harvard and the Blue of Yale just about fifty-fifty. I would say, in the matter of pennants, banners, feathers and other doo-dads.

EVERYBODY ON HAND

Everybody and his brother—and his sweetheart, too—has been lured to this typically American spectacle. Gene Tunney, the retired leather pitcher, was among those present, the guest of Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale University. Mrs. Tunney was at the exchampion's side, looking quite beautiful as do all the young women here today.

In the stands and on the sidelines were many old grads and former football stars, heroes of another day.

Also among the spectators were 20 members of the Princeton varsity football squad who were long rewarded for having seen action in most of the games this season.

The weather was almost ideal from the spectators standpoint, but a trifle too warm for the players. For the most part it was cloudy

Yale Bowl, Nov. 22—A fighting Harvard team this afternoon brought an otherwise disappointing season to a glorious finish by defeating Yale in the annual clash between the two teams.

Entering the game with the odds against them, the Crimson team rose to its greatest heights from the opening whistle. Two forward passes, in the middle of the first period, put Harvard in the lead, 7 to 0. Woods to Huguley brought the touchdown.

Yale's defense against Harvard's air game was ineffective, even though the Elis had been warned that the Crimson would take to the air.

YALE DEFENSE SHIFTS

Huguley, Harvard buck, scored the touchdown in the first period on the second of two long passes from Wood, who drop kicked goal for the extra point. Huguley was uncovered when he renewed the pass. Yale defense man being near him. He pass corner about 40 yards.

Yale stopped Harvard on the 8-yard line in the second period, which was marked by Booth's long but incompleted passes.

Harvard scored again in the third period on the same play as brought the first touchdown. A Yale fumble gave Harvard the ball on Yale's 26-yard line. After a buck at center, Wood threw a perfect pass over the line to Huguley, the pass catching the Yale defense off watch again. Although heavily tackled, Huguley went over. Wood missed the goal, making the score Harvard 13, Yale 0.

Booth went back into the game here.

Neither team scored in the fourth period.

In the fourth period Harvard scored again on a forward pass, Wood to Harding, but the referee called the ball back, claiming interference.

FIRST PERIOD.

Tickner won the toss for Harvard. White replaced Sherry at fullback. Harvard elected to kick off to Yale. Stewart at left guard was for Yale. Tickner kicked to Lane.

RIGHTS OF CHILDREN TOLD IN WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE REPORT

ESSENTIALS TO WELFARE ARE NAMED

Community Organizations Proposed to See That Plan Is Carried Out

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—The rights of American childhood were expressed today in the report of the White House conference to aid the young, as follows:

1—Every prospective mother should have suitable information, medical supervision during the pre-natal period, competent care at confinement. Every mother should have post-natal medical supervision for herself and child.

2—Every child should receive periodical health examinations before and during the school period, including adolescence, by the family physician, or the school or other public physician, and such examination by specialists, and such hospital care as its special needs may require.

3—Every child should have regular dental examination and care.

TRAINING IN SAFETY.

4—Every child should have instruction in the schools in health and in safety from accidents, and every teacher should be trained in health programs.

5—Every child should be protected from communicable diseases to which he might be exposed at home, in school or at play, and protected from impure milk and food.

6—Every child should have proper sleeping rooms, diet, hours of sleep and play, and parents should receive expert information as to the needs of children of various ages as to these questions.

7—Every child should attend a school which has proper seating, lighting, ventilation and sanitation. For younger children, kindergartens and nursery school should be provided to supplement home care.

PROPER PLACE TO PLAY

8—The school should be so organized as to discover and develop the special abilities of each child, and should assist, in vocational guidance, for children like men, succeed by the use of their strongest qualities and special interests.

9—Every child should have some form of religious, moral and character training.

10—Every child has a right to a place to play with adequate facilities therefore.

11—With the expanding domain of the community's responsibilities for children, there should be proper coordination and better supervision of recreation and entertainment.

12—Every child should be protected against labor that stunts growth, either physical or mental, that limits education, that deprives children of the right of comradeship, of joy and play.

CARE OF ORPHANS.

13—Every child who is blind, deaf, crippled or otherwise physically handicapped, should be given expert study and corrective treatment where there is the possibility of relief, and appropriate development or training. Children with subnormal or abnormal mental conditions should receive adequate study, protection, training and care.

14—Every waif and orphan in need must be supported.

15—Every child is entitled to the feeling that he has a home. The extension of the services in the community should supplement and not supplant parents.

16—Children who habitually fail to meet normal standards of human behavior should be provided special care under the guidance of the school the community health or welfare center or other agency for continued supervision or, if necessary, control.

17—Where the child does not have these services, due to inadequate income of the family, then such services must be provided to him by the community.

RURAL CHILDREN

18—The rural child should have as satisfactory schooling, health protection and welfare facilities as the city child.

19—In order that these minimum protections of the health and welfare of children may be everywhere available, there should be a district, county or community organization for health education and welfare with full time officials, co-ordinating with a statewide program which will be responsible to a nation-wide service of general information, statistics and scientific research. This should include:

(A)—Trained full time public officials with public health nurses, sanitary inspection and labor factory workers.

(B)—Available hospital beds.

(C)—Full time public welfare services for the relief and aid of children in special need from poverty or misfortune, for the protection of children from abuse, neglect, exploitation or moral hazard.

(D)—The development of voluntary organizations of children for purposes of instruction, health and recreation through private effort and benefaction. When possible, existing agencies should be coordinated.

WAR MATERIALS PUBLICITY IS URGED BY U. S.

Gibson Supports Proposal by Dutch at Geneva, but Japan Objects

Geneva, Nov. 22 (AP)—Hugh S. Gibson, speaking for the United States, today told the preparatory disarmament commission that full exchange of information regarding war materials was essential to the success of any disarmament treaty.

The United States, he said, already employs a system of full publicity and exchange of information. His statement was made during a speech supporting a Dutch proposal to this effect. The Canadian delegation also sponsored the policy.

N. Sato, the Japanese delegate, however, declared Japan could not accept any such exchange of information which he considered as contrary to the interests of national defense.

Obligations under Article 8 of the League of Nations covenant be interpreted as permitting a country always to consider its defense requirements.

Gen De Marin withdrew Italy's reservation made at a previous session of the committee and threw his support to the Dutch plan for an annual report of all arms and ammunition in service and reserve.

The entire difficult question was referred to a sub-committee including the United States and other large powers.

For the most part the delegates expect a further advance by world opinion before the general disarmament conference meets, which will force the government into adoption of more radical views in favor of disarmament. Economic pressures of tax burdens and an increasing abhorrence of war are cited as the chief factors supporting this expectation.

COAST GUARD SEIZES RUM AT COHASSET

Runners Use Estate of Secretary Adams as a Cover; All Make Escape

An attempt to use the estate of Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams as a screen for rum running activities at Cohasset harbor, was blocked early today by coast guardsmen who seized 600 cases of rare liquors.

Four shots were fired by guardsmen as four men fled in a truck while others escaped into Massachusetts Bay in a 60-foot speed boat.

The liquor, valued at $150,000 by Capt. Sumner H. Corbett of the North Scituate Coast Guard station, had just been landed by the power boat crew. The coast guardsmen arrived just as the reloading began, and the truck left without a single case of the champagnes and whiskey.

Capt. Corbett said the rum runners were equipped with dual engines, one, a gasoline power plant for operations off shore, and the other, a silent electric engine, designed for silent approaches to shore.

The liquor was later transferred to the appraisers store on Atlantic ave., Boston.

Judge Bitten by the Law—It's News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Getting so you don't recognize prominent men unless they have their pictures taken with their lawyers.

This is result of reform within the party.

It's taught us one thing.

Politicians are all fat. While reformers are anemic.

And reformers are only reformers until they can afford their own lawyers.

How long does reform last? How long does it take a washed hog to return to the wallow?

Trouble with present reform is that it's lumpy.

They don't spread it out evenly.

19 Plead Not Guilty in Rum Seizure at Sea

Arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney on charges of conspiracy to violate the revenue laws, 19 of the crews of the New York tug Murrell and tow barges Edith and Eagle Hill, seized off Rockland, Me., last Wednesday, pleaded not guilty and were held in bail totalling $17,000 today.

Capt. Louis Fisher was held in the highest individual bail, set at $2500.

Investigation disclosed that the illicit cargo on the Edith, which first reports valued at $1,000,000, was worth about $12,000. No liquor was found on the Murrell or Eagle Hill.

The 153 cases of liquor seized were landed at the Appraisers stores wharf today by the customs 36-foot launch Peg, from Bird Island flats where the contraband had been kept on the captured vessels under heavy guard.

Report Wealthy Syndicate Backing Rum Row Activities

London, Nov. 22 (US)—Rumrunners off this Atlantic coast of the United States, with sufficient money to bribe American officials in handling 250,000 cases of liquor a month for American consumption.

This is the startling statement of Capt. T. Randall, skipper of the once famous I'm Alone, which was sunk by a United States revenue cutter. Capt. Randall, who arrived in England on the Berengaria on what he calls "a secret business mission," said:

"Things are flourishing on Rum Row now. They have got it organized on a big business basis.

"Big rings, with capital ranging up to $20,000,000, are taking complete charge, and they are handling anything up to 250,000 cases a month.

Every Job Now Will Supply Meal for Thanksgiving

If you have an odd job to be done, or work for one or more men or women in store, office, factory or other business enterprise, call the Municipal Employment Bureau, Liberty 8607, or mail the coupon to 25 Church st., Boston.

The people of Greater Boston and all New England have an opportunity in the next few days to make Thanksgiving a day of some degree of gladness, instead of gloom, for the needy unemployed.

These men and women, thousands of them, face the saddest Thanksgiving of their lives unless help, in the form of work, comes their way.

USE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Where there is work to be done it should be done now, when there are idle hands to do it, the hands of men and women with families dependent upon them—in some cases large families of eight and more children.

The people of Greater Boston can aid by supplying such work through the Municipal Employment Bureau.

Human kindliness and thoughtfulness have inspired hundreds already to provide work through this bureau, but hundreds daily are applying for work and receiving only disappointment, in spite of all that Director Shields and his corps of assistants can do.

FAMILIES NEED FOOD

It will be a sorrowful Thanksgiving if these men, many of whom each day appeal for work at the bureau without having breakfasted, together with others who have had nothing but coffee and perhaps a slice of toast, have no better .are for themselves and their families on the holiday.

They do not ask charity, but a chance to work, to earn a few dollars to help them along the road toward better days.

If you can find something for them to do, at the small cost it will mean to you, notify the Municipal Employment Bureau with all speed.

Edison Once Passed Up Radio Loud Speaker

Washington, Nov. 22—Thomas A. Edison's deafness once caused him to overlook the possibilities of an invention which since has brought in millions in royalties from the radio industry, it was revealed here yesterday.

The device, now the basis of the present-day loud speaker, was the invention of Joseph C. Hopkins, of this city, who at the time was associated with the Edison Menlo Park.

Failing, because of his defective hearing, to recognize the merit of the invention, Edison permitted Hopkins to take the patent to other promoters.

5 HURT ON WAY TO YALE GAME

Clinton, Ct., Nov. 22 (AP)—A car travelling over the Boston Post rd. with a party for the football game at Yale Bowl hit a telegraph pole today, injuring six persons in it. All were taken to Grace Hospital in New Haven.

The names of those who received hospital treatment were:

Samuel Samuels, 33 Summey st., Israel Samuels, same address, Abrahaun Silverman, 137 Shirley ave., Harry Silverman, same address, Morris Moore, 87 Shirley ave., all of Revere, Mass., and James W. Grady, 18 Pleasant Park road, Winthrop, Mass.

All had cuts and bruises.

It was explained by members of the party that their car skidded in car tracks and hit the pole, which was broken off.

of highest caste, and others that could not even allow his shadow to fall upon them in India without pollution, there sat one of the untouchables, the lowest class, horribly oppressed, that numbers 43,000,000 in India's population.

At home this low class creature could not walk on the same side of the street with those that met him at the round table. His touch would mean contamination for them and death for him. His breath would be poison.

But they all applauded him in London because the poor creature said he preferred any kind of rule by the Hindus to rule by the British. Slaves cling to their slavery.

New York Gang Graft Runs From Cradle to Grave

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Complaints indicating that racketeers obtain millions of dollars annually preying upon activities ranging from funeral processions to corner golf courses were before the authorities today in their onslaught against the underworld.

After receiving 50 statements testifying to 15 rackets in the city, District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain said:

"It would appear that they have their hands in everything from the cradle to the grave—from babies' milk to funeral coaches."

On the basis of one complaint, Mr. Crain estimated that gangdom shakes down $5,000,000 annually from the consignees of ship and railroad freight, levying a tribute of three cents on every hundredweight of goods delivered here. Every pier and railroad station in the city, with the exception of the United Fruit Line, it was stated, is dominated by racketeers.

Other complaints claimed that the operators of independent laundries and cleaning and dyeing shops pay more than a $1,000,000 a year into the coffers of the underworld. If they don't, they are in danger of having garments in their care ruined by acid, slashed to ribbons or stolen, it was said.

Additional lines from which gangsters rake off vast sums were listed as follows: Funeral coaches on the way to cemeteries; musicians in cabarets, theaters and dance halls and miniature golf courses. In every case, refusal to pay means personal injury or destruction of property, the letters stated.

MORE DRY MEN FOR CHICAGO

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Ten prohibition agents have been added to the force in the Chicago district to strengthen the Government's drive on the underworld, and many more may be sent there later.

Director Woodcock, of the prohibition bureau, revealed the move today—saying his men had been instructed to cooperate with other federal agencies fighting the gangsters.

If Congress approves his request for 500 additional agents, he said a considerable number of these would be sent to Chicago.

FIRST LADY IN SCOUT TALK

New York, Nov. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover attended a "party" last night. That's what she called it. She said it would have been quite perfect except for the fact that she had to make a speech.

It was at a dinner at the Biltmore celebrating the merger of the Girl Scout organizations of the five boroughs that she spoke. Mrs. Hoover is honorary president of the national organization.

Mercury at 70 Sets Record Here

Today was the hottest November 22 Boston ever has experienced with the thermometer boiling up to 70 at noon. The weather bureau reported this breaks all records of the last 59 years.

The nearest mark to this for the present month was on November 14, with 67 recorded. Slightly cooler is forecast for tomorrow.

INDIAN FEDERAL UNION SEEN

London, Nov. 22 (AP)—A widely held view that the India Round Table conference is headed toward shaping a federal union of Indian states and British Indian provinces was apparent in conference circles today.

Prime Minister MacDonald's assurance to Indian delegates intimating an eventual federation status for India, is expected to smooth difficulties in the way of eventual agreement.

The task now before the delegates is to hammer out details of agreement in long weeks of committee work, which will start Monday. There were no meetings of the conference today.

CENSUS PLACES U. S. POPULATION FOR 1930 AT 122,775,046

16 PER CENT GAIN SHOWN IN DECADE

Four States Increase More Than Million; California Leads All Others

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—The 1930 population of the United States is 122,775,046, it was announced today by the census bureau as the final total of the compilation it started at the begining of the year. All revisions have been completed.

The census report shows the number of inhabitants of the 48 states increased in the preceding decade by 17,064,426, or 16.1 per cent. The 1920 population was 105,710,620.

CALIFORNIA LEADS

In the column showing the percentage of increase by states was a key to several important trends of th last ten years. Leading in this table was California with 65.7 per cent, Florida with 51.6 and Michigan with 32 per cent. Fourth was Arizona with 30.3.

New Jersey had 28.1 suggestive of the shift from metropolises to adjacent suburban territory.

Texas, 24.9, and North Carolina, 23.9, pointed to the southern advance in industry and agriculture. Oregon had 21.8 and New York ninth in rank, had 21.2. For tenth place West Virginia and Louisiana tied at 18.1 per cent.

THREE BIG GAINS

California led also in total gains, adding 2,250,304 inhabitants. Still New York State gained 2,202,839. Michigan, Texas and Illinois were the only other states to gain more than one million. Only one state, Montana, lost population, dropping 11,283.

Substantial increases were shown by Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Canal Zone, with the Virgin Islands the only loser.

The following table gives the population by states, territories and possessions, together with the numerical and percentage increase since 1920. Decreases are marked X.

STORMS AGAIN BALK DO-X

Santander, Spain, Nov. 22—Storm e sweeping in from the Bay of Biscay kept the DO-X, giant German seaplane, harbor bound today.

The take-off for Corunna, Spain, on the fifth stage of the flight that may carry it across the Atlantic is planned for tomorrow.

Only continuing bad flying weather can force Dr. Claude Dornier, designer and builder of "the huge air liner, and Capt. Friedrich Christiansen to delay the hop further.

So fierce was the storm the craft's 2 motors had to be run to prevent it from being carried out into the bay.

Dr. Dornier expects to remain at Corunna for three days and then start for Lisbon, where he will make the final decision whether to cross the Atlantic.

Eight of the 13 passengers who came here from Bordeaux and had passage-way to Corunna, have left the craft.

FOUR ADMIRALS AT NAVY YARD

Representing the largest number of navy admirals to visit Boston at a single time since the World War, four admirals were at the U. S. Navy Yard today on official business.

The three officers visiting Rear-Admiral Louis M. Multon, yard commandant, are: Rear-Admiral C. J. Murphin, whose flagship is the Detroit; Rear-Admiral C. S. Kempff of the Trenton, Rear-Admiral George P. Pettingill of the mine layer Ogalala.

The admirals will be here until after the Christmas holidays.

Brockton Blaze Causes $1200 Loss

Brockton, Nov. 22—Destroying a piano, desk and other furniture belonging to the Railroad Brotherhood, a fire of unknown origin early today burned to the ground an old barn on property at 31 North Quincy st. owned by Walter Grows.

The fire started at 1 o'clock and quickly swept through the building, causing about $1200 damages. The barn was used as the brotherhood clubhouse and a meeting had been held last night.

War Conversations of Col. House Secret

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Objections by Great Britain, France and Italy, voiced officially to the United States more than a year ago, have caused the omission from the state department's publications of wartime documents of the minutes of the conversations between Colonel E. M. House and allied leaders.

Autopsy Shows Deer Dying Before Shot; Youth Freed

Springfield, Nov. 22 (AP)—Judge Wallace R. Heady in District Court today reversed a decision of Thursday in which he had imposed [illegible] of $50 on Richard Jo[illegible] East Longmeadow for [illegible]ing a deer. Johnson said he found wounded and apparently dying, allowed the young man to plea nolo and dismissed the case.

A court autopsy on the deer showed it appeared the deer had been in a dying condition.

Cash for Vets Urged as Prosperity Move

By WRIGHT PATMAN

(Democratic Member of National House of Representatives from Texas.) (Written Expressly for Universal Services.)

Washington, Nov. 21—Payment by the government of the World War veterans' adjusted compensation certificates in cash now is the thing to do to bring immediate prosperity to the entire nation.

Every city and town in the country will be benefited immediately, and this can be done without increasing taxes.

The government can now borrow money at 2 per cent interest. Two billion dollars added to the $700,000,000 now in the Treasury for the purpose of retiring these certificates will pay them all.

During the last decade the war debt has been paid off at the average rate of $1,000,000,000 a year, having been reduced from $26,000,000,000 to $16,000,000,000.

Our allies in the World War will pay us at least $7,000,000,000, which will reduce the war debt to $9,000,000,000. When that is paid an effort will be made by our foreign debtors for cancellation.

Let us hold up on paying the principal of the war debt two or three years, at least, and use that money to pay these certificates.

American Dies of Cuban Riot Wounds

Havana, Nov. 22 (AP)—The American embassy today received official notification of the death of Arturo Tagle y Soria, 24, of Key West, Fla., who was fatally injured November 13 in a street fight between demonstrators and police. Soria was shot in the right lung and his head was bruised.

Havana Newspapers Resume Publication

Havana, Nov. 22 (AP)—Havana newspapers which refused to out out their editions so long as the Government made them submit their matter to a censor have decided to issue a small point edition to appear every morning. The three papers are El Pais, Diario de la Marina and El Mundo.

SUSPECT IN GUN FIGHT GIVES UP

Greenwich, Ct., Nov. 22 (AP)—One of two gunmen who had wounded an officer in an automobile dash and gun fight in Greenwich today later surrendered to 6o police who surrounded him, after wounding a second officer in the leg.

He gave his name as Robert Lutz, 24, of New Orleans. His companion, he said, was Albert Pace, of New Britain Ct.

The two men had abandoned their automobile in East Port Chester after a spectacular chase and escape through the streets of Greenwich.

Lutz was suffering from a wound in the arm when captured. It is believed the wound was inflicted by Motorcycle Policeman William Fyne, who emptied his revolver at the fleeing automobile during the chase through town. The officer wounded by Lutz before surrendering was Patrolman John Teufel.

Lutz declared he and Pace stole the car in which they were first seen in New Haven early today.

The capture followed a pursuit along the Boston post road, starting in Norwalk.

Officer James Henly, on traffic duty in Greenwich, became a target for the fire as he tried to stop them. One bullet struck him in the right hand. He probably will lose the middle finger and possibly the forefinger.

THREE SHARE $523,800 ON SWEEPSTAKES

Two Bartenders Get Part of Winnings as Glorious Dawn Captures the Race

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Nov. 22 (AP)—A couple of Belfast bartenders who have been polishing glasses for a comfortable number of years, split half a million dollars today with a clerk in the Ulster Department of Agriculture because Glorious Devon led the field home in the Manchester November handicap.

They would have had a million to share if they hadn't taken on a fourth partner who bought for $11.500 half their lucky ticket in the Dublin Hospital sweepstakes on the race.

Frank Ward and John Torney, against whose mahogany bar many a Belfast man has leaned, bought the ticket originally with Matt Prescott, who works in the office of the Ulster minister of agriculture.

DANCES A JIG

Ward was shaking up a drink for a customer in the pub where he works when the news of his windfall came. He dropped everything, including the customer, and broke into what he called an Irish jig. After that the drinks were on the house.

Prescott went to the race. Just before it started he told somebody he thought Glorious Deven was a "pretty good horse," and explained that Ward and Torney had to argue with him quite a while before he'd buy part of their ticket. The fourth "partner," he said, was Ludroke & Co., London accountants.

Eleven Americans and Canadians figured in the winning, and A. Dawe of Vancouver, B. C., stands to collect $400,000 if he held on to his ticket for Coligny II, who finished three lengths behind Glorious Devon.

WIDOW WINS $200,000

A widow who has lived for 25 years in the tiny village of Workington, home of Sherwood Forest, drew Nestorian, and $200,000 fell into her lap.

Mrs. Harris and John Tanagana of New York, and U. de Toh, who lives in Manila, P. I., are worth $10,000 each if they still have their tickets on starters.

The lot of others are richer for the sweepstakes, too, for there were only 28 horses in the race and $265,750 was to be divided among those who held horses other than the first three to finish.

SCRATCHES WIN, TOO

Even those who drew horses which were scratched are richer by $2670 each. Among these are Murdick Feirier, 21 Moore st., East Boston, Mass., who had Break of Day; Margaret Cohnian of New York City, who had Brown Penny; G. B. Bailey of Peterborough, Ont., who drew Sun Edition; A. Cowie, Uno, Manitoba, who had Umapur, and E. C. Wilson of Mattawa, Ont., who drew Rower of Rome.

"The Field" was drawn by E. Billington of Lockport, Manitoba, but the sweepstakes authorities had not explained this morning what that prize was.

J. Gillen of Winnipeg also shares $9825 for a runner, having drawn Timber.

Edna Thompson, the widow of Worksop, collects $204,565 on Nestorian, a 50-1 shot, which finished four lengths behind Coligny II, priced at 40 to 1.

Glorious Devon is owned by Lord Glanely. The winner is by Panamern, out of Sky Glory. The race stakes, for a sile and a half course, were $7500.

Italy Awaits Action of U. S. on Court

Rome, Nov. 22 (AP)—The council of ministers upon recommendation of Foreign Minister Grandi today ratified a draft of the royal decree approving the Geneva protocol of 1929 relative to adhesion by the United States to the permanent court of international justice at The Hague.

It also was expected to approve the Geneva protocols of 1929 and 1929 relative to the statute court itself.

Victor to Ride Mule to N. C. Legislature

North Wilkesboro, N. C., Nov. 22 (AP)—The Democratic county of Wilkes County that sent Hugh A. Cranor to the General Assembly was the record in 32 years. In celebration thereof he has announced he will ride a mule 175 miles to Raleigh for the opening of the Legislature.

2 BOSTONIANS ARE WINNERS

While an East Boston fisherman was regretting his luck in winning only $2670 instead of the million hoped for in the Manchester sweepstakes, the son of a Dorchester policeman apparently has won $10,000 on another ticket.

Fred Collins, 6-year-old son of Patrolman James F. Collins of North Munroe ter., Dorchester, received a telegram notifying him of holding a money ticket in the lottery. He has forwarded it to Quebec for collection.

Meanwhile, Murdick Poirier of East Boston is taking his "bad luck" philosophically, since the million-dollar first choice, Break o' Day, failed and was scratched.

"I wouldn't know what to do with a million, anyway," he said.

Capper Urges Added Test for Farm Board

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Further trial for the 18-months-old Farm Board was advocated today by two senators from the farm belt—Capper of Kansas and Norris of Nebraska, Republicans—as the Senate Agricultural Committee prepared to hear farm leaders Monday.

Views expressed at discussions before the committee are expected to have considerable bearing on whether enactment of the export debenture or equalization fee is to be sought.

Seized Boats to Be Auctioned Off

Three motorboats seized by the government and forfeited by their owners in United States court will be auctioned to highest bidders next week, Marshal William J. Revell announced yesterday.

The "Jet" and the "Nancy" will be auctioned at noon Wednesday at Kelley's wharf, Fairhaven. The "Folome" will be sold next Saturday at 1 p. m. at the Marshal Vineyard Sailbuilding Corp., Vineyard Haven.

BREWERS READY TO DOUBLE FORCES

Officials of Two in Boston Will Also Add to Equipment if Beer Is Legalized

Officials of two large Boston breweries declared today they would at least double their working forces, besides spending large sums for installation of machinery, if manufacture of beer is legalized for relief of unemployment under a plan revealed by Governor-elect Joseph B. Ely.

Governor-elect Ely said the governors of the eastern industrial states are to study a proposal for modification of the Volstead act so as to permit manufacture of beer as a business stimulant and to help relieve unemployment.

"All breweries are running half time now," said J. E. Doherty, general manager of the Commercial Brewing Co., 607 Atlantic ave. "Real beer would at least double our forces and every brewery would spend for installation of machinery and other things."

A spokesman for the Burkhardt Brewing Co. of Roxbury, said the plant would also be enlarged greatly if this dry law change was adopted.

According to Ely, the discussion is to come up at a conference early in January, called by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

While he admitted the main question before the conference would be stimulating employment, he said prohibition is almost certain to be discussed from the viewpoint of unemployment and revival of business.

He said if no one else makes the proposal to modify the Volstead act to relieve unemployment, he will bring up the matter.

Advocates of the proposal claim 75,000 jobs otherwise would exist in such grain being used, and, in this way, farmers would benefit, as well as thousands of others, who would obtain work.

STATE ATTACKS NEUMAN ALIBI

Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle called Moe Neuman's alibi "phony" and a fabrication today, as he made the State's final argument in the trial of Neuman in connection with the murder of Leander of Samuel Reinstein in the Hotel Huntington in September, 1929.

The jury was sent to lunch after Doyle finished his address, and at 2:30 Judge Broadhurst began his charge, after which Neuman's fate was to be placed in the hands of the jurors.

"Bloodmen isn't going to be made an execution ground for racketeers," said Doyle. He assailed the testimony of Philadelphia bonding men who appeared for Neuman, saying the alibi presented was "too good."

Atty. Herbert Callahan, for Neuman, verbally lashed Margaret Wheeler, star witness for the State and sweetheart of the slain man, calling her a moron who wanted somebody's life taken to avenge Reinstein.

Tests on Monkeys Show Paralysis Cure

By GORIND BEHARI LAL, Science Editor, Universal Service.

New York, Nov. 22—Highly concentrated anti-infantile paralysis serum that has been proved to prevent this disease in experimental monkeys has been developed here.

This was revealed by Dr. Josephine B. Neal, one of the foremost authorities on infantile paralysis research in this country, at the Columbia Presbyterian medical center, N. Y. Neurological institute.

MOST AUTHENTIC ADVANCE.

Dr. Neal pictured carefully the farthest and most authentic advances made by science against infantile paralysis up to this time in these words:

"This serum is injected into the system of monkeys kept for such experiments. It prevents the attack of the disease, even when the virulent infantile paralysis filtrable virus is injected into the bodies of these animals. Whether the serum is given before or soon after the inoculation with the virus, it appears to serve as a disease preventive.

"When this serum is mixed with the filtrable virus of infantile paralysis in vitro, that is outside the body, in a vessel, it neutralizes the virus or poison. That is, monkeys inoculated with such a mixed substance do not get the disease.

NEUTRALIZES INFECTION

"This serum neutralizes the infantile paralysis infecting virus 5 times as rapidly and effectively as does the serum obtained from the blood of patients recovering from infantile paralysis.

"Good results have been reported in treatment of infantile paralysis cases before the paralysis starts, from the use of all three types of sera. Logically speaking, one expects the best results from the Park type. But most careful further researches with large numbers of animals and, if possible, human patients, be necessary to say conclusively which serum is best. Our aim is to find a test showing who is and who is not susceptible to infantile paralysis."

Premiere to Aid Fund for Hospital

SOCIETY MAIDENS AND MATRONS are earnestly putting their shoulder to the wheel to relieve the privation and suffering in and around Boston by working as they never have done before to "put over" charity events, soliciting advertising, arranging subscriptions, ushering, selling tickets, visiting the sick in the hospitals and spending their money freely at good prices for tickets to attend each and every affair as it comes along, and that means almost every day. They also assist in another way as it encourages professional talent in an off year.

Junior League Will Sell Handicraft Made in Schools

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS shopping early and do some of it at the Junior League exhibition which opened Monday and continues through November 28. It is a loan exhibition of handicraft done by children of Boston under 16 years of age, and includes wood-carving, block prints, peasant embroidery, model boats, bookbinding and painted lampshades, boxes and screens. The articles were collected under the supervision of Mrs. Carlton Richmond and were chosen for their artistic merit as well as beauty of craftsmanship, and give an idea of what extraordinarily beautiful and saleable articles can be made by children given adequate training and instruction. Some of the articles were made by children in the Settlement House classes and others were sent by private schools.

THE RED STOCKING COMMITTEE of the Junior League, headed by Mrs. J. Timothy Walker, Jr., will launch its yearly campaign November 30 through December 7 by distributing red stockings at various churches and private schools of greater Boston. The Junior League took over the philanthropic obligations of the older Red Stocking committee in 1921, and since that time has distributed decorated trees and Christmas greens to a steadily increasing number of charitable organizations. This year the money will be spent for necessities as well as the symbols of Christmas cheer.

THROUGH THE COURTESY of the management of the Ritz-Carlton hotel, the Disabled Ex-Servicemens Exchange will conduct an exhibition and sale of the work of disabled veterans in the Colonial room on Monday, Nov. 24, from 10 until 5:30. Many exquisite and lovely articles may be found among the handicraft of the disabled. Christmas suggestions for gift giving will be attractively on display. The committee, including Mrs. Timothee Adamowski, Mrs Lars Anderson, Mrs. Edward M. Beals, Mrs. Curtis Guild, Mrs. James Cunningham Gray, and Mrs. Charles Royce Bird, will be in attendance during the day.

Playground Plan in Watertown Opposed

Residents of the Riverton section of Watertown last night presented a petition to the board of selectmen, protesting against the proposed establishment of a playground on Metropolitan park property, opposite Thurston rd.

The petition was signed by 85 residents, many of whom appeared at a hearing before the board of selectmen last night to voice their objections. The town has started negotiations with the Metropolitan Park Commission for the use of the area as a town playground for the section.

Chelsea Hospital Vets Entertained

War veterans at the Chelsea Naval Hospital were give a treat yesterday afternoon with a lengthy musical program and entertainment by the Casa Loma Orchestra. Sponsored by Rear Admiral and Mrs. Philip Andrews Wendell and Mrs. Malvin Hill Barnum, Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Mrs. Barrett Wendell and Mrs. Wilbur S. Grant, with the assistance of a number of Junior League debs and others socially prominent from Brookline and Back Bay, the affair was one of the finest ever presented at the hospital.

Through the courtesy of John J. Levanti, managing director of the Lido Venice, the entire staff of entertainers, the orchestra and plenty of ice cream and cake were provided for the veterans. Junior League girls served the veterans. Red Cross officials were active in completing arrangements. Transportation was furnished by the Captain of the Gray line.

Clubs' News Clippings Sought for History

By NANCY BREWSTER

As a Tercentenary gift to the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, Bay State clubs are asked to make contributions of newspaper clippings about their groups for the historical scrap book now being compiled by the department of Press and Publicity.

Mrs. Walter D. Hall, state press chairman, wants every club in the federation and there are 382 of them, to be represented in this historical collection that a record of what the women's clubs of the commonwealth did in the tercentenary year may go down for posterity.

If clubs lack such printed reports, they are urged to get into the club pages of their local newspapers that the record may be complete. Mrs. Robert A. Caspole, Wollaston, is director of the historical scrap book and To-her should be sent all such contributions.

At the sixth district conference of the federation, held recently at the Hotel Statler, Mrs. Hall praised the press for their co-operation with women's clubs and their assistance in making front page copy of women's activities. That the club women could not have gained the impetus and succeeded as rapidly as it had, had not the press been so generous, Mrs. Hall admitted.

She urged the women to make friends of the newspapers which make friends of the clubwomen and what they do.

The districts of the federation are represented on the press committee, each district having a press chairman. They are in order of their numerical districts: Mrs. Newton F. Jones, Mrs. Robert A. Caspole, Miss Nora A. Brophy, Mrs. Everett Jones, Mrs. Reuben Gleason, Jr., Mrs. Frank A. Merrill, Miss Edith N. Winn, Mrs. Ford Hanscom, Mrs. Charles Goodwin, Mrs. Forrest S. Collier, Mrs. Amos T. Saunders, Mrs. Edmund A. Dussoit, Mrs. Maurice F. Reidy, Mrs. Leon D. Perry, Mrs. Nellie W. Russ.

Boston Federation Urged to Promote Child Health Drive

As a challenge to every clubwoman in the state, Dr. William R. P. Emerson of Commonwealth avenue told the members of the Boston City Federation, at their monthly meeting yesterday, that the solution of the 6,000,000 undernourished children in the country depended upon them.

He wanted to know what women's clubs were for, if not to combat just such an unhealthful condition and suggested that they undertake the organization of health classes to restore to these unfortunate children healthy bodies to develop healthy minds.

The physicians cannot solve it alone, he added, nor can the dietician or the physical educator, but the women of the country, the clubwomen and mothers, can combine and enforce a program of healthy home and proper athletics to bring back to normal these undernourished youngsters.

Mental hygiene, he pointed out, is a fine thing, but what good is hygiene if one has not a nourished body to begin with?

Mrs. Willard Dana Woodbury, president of the City Federation, turned the meeting over to the chairman of public health, Mrs William E. Chenery. Dr. Timothy Leary, medical examiner for the southern district of Suffolk County, talked on "The Modern Prevention and Treatment of Disease."

"Women are showing a higher percentage of deaths from high blood pressure conditions than men," he said. "It is a disturbing condition and probably due to the advent of women in fields of work today which previously were occupied by men."

A feature of the day's program was the presentation of the national flag to the federation by Charles T. Harding, representing Mayor Curley.

Women's G. O. P. Club to Hear Talk on "Voter and News"

Only one program will be presented during Thanksgiving week by the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts. Next Tuesday, Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, will be the guest speaker of the afternoon, his topic to be "The Voter and the News." The program, arranged by Mrs. Alexander Lincoln, director of the activities department, will begin 2:30 p. m. in the assembly hall of the clubhouse.

Announcement is made of the usual instruction in contract bridge to be given at the club by Mrs. Prescott Warren, Friday, Nov. 28. Mrs. Lincoln sponsors this activity also.

English Author to Lecture at Library on George B. Shaw

Of interest to literary Boston is the announcement that Maurice Colbourne, English author and actor, will deliver his first address on "The Real Bernard Shaw" in the lecture hall of the Boston Public Library, Monday, December 1, at 3:30 p. m.

As a personal friend of Bernard Shaw, and the author of the book "The Real Bernard Shaw," in which Shaw himself took a hand in preparing, Mr. Colbourne comes to the city comprehensively fitted to enlighten Bostonians on the great English writer.

He will be the guest of honor at a reception at the English Speaking Union. During his stay in the city Mr. Colbourne will make a number of addresses before clubs and college groups on Bernard Shaw, the modern drama and the work of the Theater Guild.

N. E. Women's Club to Hear Lecture on "Romance of Fabric"

Members of the New England Women's Club will hear "The Romance of Fabric" when Mrs. Katharine Osborne lectures on the subject before the club next Monday at the Hotel Kenmore, at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Edwin S. Wright, as chairman of the art committee, has charge of the program and will present the lecturer.

After the meeting, at 4 p. m., a tea and reception will be given Mrs. Robert M. Mead by members of the club on the occasion of her 75th birthday. Mrs. Mead is one of the oldest members of the club, very active in all her years as a member, and as leader of many of the classes. Hostesses for the reception are Mrs. Edward E. Allen and Mrs. Frank G. Wren.

Announcement is made that at 10 a. m., next Monday, the French class will meet and an hour later the botany group, of which Mrs. Mead is the leader. The junior French class will meet on Wednesday.

Brookline Club to Hold Dramatic Day at Monday Meeting

Dramatic Day, of which Mrs. Charles H. Dunker, chairman of the dramatic committee, has charge, is announced for the regular meeting of the Brookline Woman's Club next Monday in Whitney Hall at 2:30 p. m.

Following a short business session, "Enchanted Alley" will be presented, with these Brookline women in the cast: Mrs. J. Porter Crosby, Mrs. William Ross, Mrs. Frank S. Dunham, Mrs. Robert Walsh, Mrs. E. Wilson Lincoln, Mrs. Walter B. Leach, Mrs. Rodney Macdonough, Mrs. Walter T. Spencer, Mrs. William White, Mrs. G. Bartlett Willard.

In charge of the stage properties and decorations are: Mrs. Arthur C. Morey, Mrs. Frank E. Dunham, Mrs. Thomas A. McGough. For the tea hour to follow the play, Mrs. Newell L. Keith is the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Henry R. Flanders and Mrs. Benton D. Eddington.

Mrs. Poole to Talk on Current Events at W. Roxbury Club

For the seventh successive year Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole will lecture on current events at the meeting of the West Roxbury Woman's Club next Tuesday afternoon at 1:45. Mrs. William D. B. Little, president, will conduct a business meeting and then introduce the first vice-president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

A musical program will be offered later in the day in which Margaret MacWillie, Joan and Eileen MacWillie and Grace Sinclair will take part. Mrs. MacWillie has lived for many years in the East, thus obtaining first hand knowledge of the Oriental life which she will portray and in which she will portray in color and rhythm for the clubwomen.

In Old Boston—No. 417

Massachusetts Tercentenary, 1930

THE GREAT ELM, or, as it was better known, the Old Elm, stood near the Frog Pond at the easterly base of the hill on the Common. It was said to have been planted in 1670 by Daniel Henchman, later commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. The tree was famous all over the country 75 years ago. It was blown down in 1876. MONDAY—The Pillory.

Fur Coats Stress Handsome Belts

By ANN ARDEN

—Boston Evening American Staff Photo.
MODEL from LAMSON & HUBBARD; SHOES from THAYER McNEIL CO.

WHEN YOU choose a fur coat, be sure that it does things for you, flattering things, as well as those of utility and necessity. Its furs must be lovely, but its lines are more important than they have been in years. "No carbon copies allowed" is the slogan of chic women, who are discovering that a coat of lovely skins can be just as individual and flattering to the figure as one of cloth. How incongruous a shaggy, baggy coat would seem with our svelte, formalized frocks.

THE FUR coat with a slight flare is almost a stranger to the mode. Frequently the fur coat achieves this widened silhouette by means of intricate cut, just as the frock's skirt does. Large collars that frame the face are the order of the day and evening, cuff details are manifold, while belts are the center of interest on fur coats, as they are on every other garment this season.

THE COAT pictured has many details of interest. The Russian influence is decidedly in evidence, so is the note of contrast, shown by the trim of gray, that ultra smart color this season. The coat is of black moire caracul, slightly fitted and cleverly flared; it has a wide collar, and pointed cuffs of shaded gray krimmer. The belt is of gray suede with silver buckle.

THE TOQUE is decidedly of Russian inspiration, of vivid red velvet, banded in black Persian lamb, which also forms the two round ornaments. The strap pumps are black suede.

ALL SORTS of fur trimmings are being used on the new hats. Bows, bands, bandeaus and such give a charming emphasis when the fur repeats that of coat or frock.

LIKE THE cherry on the sundae, the topping of fur is the artistic touch on the smart little hat of velvet, with the ingenious off-the-forehead line.

THERE'S JUST a touch of reptile in the news afoot this season if we are to believe reports we hear of new shoe styles. Bits of reptile are appliqued on oxfords of kid or suede in a most ornamental fashion. Decorative gray lizard is combined with suede to give a smart effect.

Employes of the Boston Automobile Club were among those who responded yesterday to the appeals from needy families. The Boston Evening American Helping Hand department has been acting as a "go-between" for those charitably inclined and those who need help.

The employes of the Boston Automobile Club, a local unit of the American Automobile Association, has offered to donate one day's salary to help out some destitute family.

Another among those who have responded splendidly was Saul Hurwitz, who is connected with the Crawford Furriers, 453 Washington st. He sent seven fur coats to the helping hand department. These were distributed.

If you care to help with clothing, fuel, or food, please call Liberty 4000, the Helping Hand Editor.

Appeals are increasing daily. Everyone can help. Many of those families need food. You can do your share and make some family happy this Thanksgiving.

BABY NEEDS MILK
(Refer to Case 39)

I have heard of you helping needy people, so I am writing to you asking you if you could help me in some way.

I have been married almost two years. I have a son three months old. My husband doesn't work but one day a week unless more than one boat comes in. He works on a banana boat. Every Thursday he gets work from a coal company. But otherwise he works very seldom. I am asking you again if you can't help me. My baby is losing weight every week on account of not having any mauted milk or just plain milk.

I would like to go out and try and find some work but I can't very well leave my baby with anyone else. My husband and I are living with my mother. I hope that you will be able to help me.

This woman lives in Chelsea. Anyone wishing to aid may call the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 39.

FIVE WANT BASKET
(Refer to Case 40)

I wonder if you could help me for Thanksgiving to the line of food. My husband died about a month ago, leaving me quite penniless.

I have four children and they all look to me for their Thanksgiving dinner, but what can I do. On account of ill health, I am unable to work and I just depended on the pay one of the girls gives me, which is very scant.

I know you have a great many such appeals, but I just wondered if you could help me.

This woman lives in Roxbury. Anyone wishing to aid may call the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 40.

NINE NEED SHOES
(Refer to Case 41

I am writing a few lines to see if there is any way of helping me a little. I am a mother of nine children, eight boys and one girl. My little girl is only one month old and when she was born my husband lost his job, and now he is sick and not able to do any hard work, and I am not strong myself.

My oldest boy is only 14 years old and unable to help me yet. My poor children are worrying about how to get our Thanksgiving dinner, and I am worrying about them day in and day out, trying to get enough together for them to eat. They all need shoes and stockings. The boys' ages are from two to 14 years and my two boys age six and seven are without overcoats.

I get a little city aid, about $5 worth of groceries, but it only lasts a couple of days and then I have the rest of the week to worry about.

My husband has been trying to get some light work to do but he is unable to find any. I am in need of a coat myself, size 40 or 42, and shoes size 6½. I hope you will be able to help my children if not myself. I will be very much pleased for some one to call on me to see my family.

This woman lives in Melrose. Aid can be given them by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and asking for Case 41.

AGED COUPLE NEED AID
(Refer to Case 42)

My grandmother and grandfather live in the North End and I would like the Boston Evening American to help them. They hardly have any clothes and almost nothing to eat. They have eight grandchildren who can't afford to help them. Hoping you will help them.

This girl lives in the North End. Anyone wishing to investigate this case only learn the address by calling the Boston Evening American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and asking for Case 42.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Editor Boston American:

That Boston Tea Party is said to be the fundamental factor behind much of this present lawlessness in this part of the country and elsewhere. Go down to Griffith's Wharf, the site of this demonstration and just think this over.

This is being backed by Prof. William O. Bagley of Teachers College, who accents the beginning of revolutionary ideas right down to this place.

We cannot blame prohibition for the increase of crime. We had a larger proportion of crime before prohibition came on the stage. Blame tea!

Veteran Assails Hold Back of Funds

Editor Boston American:

Why does this country hold back money that justly belongs to the veterans over a period of 20 years? At these hard times it would be a God-send to many of the men. It is beyond me why the American Legion didn't make it an issue at the last convention here in Boston.

Ninety per cent of the veterans would not squander the money. I, for one, would invest my money in a farm at once. Let the government cash the certificates at once!

Canada got a loan from the United States to pay their veterans and they have paid this loan back. Why can't the richest country pay their veterans?

A VETERAN.

Says Rich Should Open Purses to Jobless

Editor Boston American:

About creating jobs and donating for the poor. Committees have been appointed for those purposes. Heard them talk on those subjects over the radio. Wouldn't it be a great idea to ask the members of the great tear pools that have raided the stock markets of the entire world and brought on great loss and destruction and helped to bring on this panic by shrinkage in purchasing power into the billions of dollars, to dispose some of the millions they made of other people's blood money to contribute some of it for the poor people's cause. Those bears can spare a whole lot more of their money then calling on mostly poor people to help poor people. It is the millionaires that should open up their purses. They have it. A. S.

Seeks Repairs for Nantasket Boulevard

Editor Boston American:

At this time when the great interest of the nation is centered on the unemployment situation, I write this trusting someone who might have influences with our Metropolitan Commission may see it.

The boulevard at Nantasket Beach is badly in need of repair, and has been so for some years. I am told the selectmen of Hull have appealed on several occasions to the commission but to no avail. I do not have to go into detail about the deplorable condition of this boulevard, as all our visitors from all parts of the state and nation have given it wide publicity after having ridden over it. It seems to me, having taken all this valuable, taxable property from the town, the least the state could do is to keep it in fairly good repair. Last spring they did put in a few shovelfuls of peastone and tar in some of the holes but in a few days we had the same old washboard conditions back again. This condition has kept a few mechanics employed repairing our broken springs, but why not send a bunch of the boys down and smooth it up?

Zion's Herald Editor Hits Anti-Saloon League

Editor Boston American:

I notice in the American that there was much discontent over the Anti-Saloon League. The Rev. Dr. L. O. Hartman, Methodist minister, editor of Zion's Herald, published in Boston, is out with a broadside against the league. His frankness in discussing it, which has also been in the minds of many members of the league, will give some relief to their feelings. They have felt for some time that the league has not been sizing up to requirements.

This is nothing new. Like every other organization it needs to be reorganized. It needs to get back much of the influence it had, but which it lost. Evidently it is not what it ought to be.

Dr. Hartman is just a voice in a wilderness of people who have entertained the same convictions that he has now sprung before the supporters of this league in New England. There is a place for the league, but it must be born again.

B. U. Student Elected to R. I. House, Hard Worker

Editor Boston American:

A 28 year old student of the Boston University School of Law has just been elected to the House of Representatives in Rhode Island. His home is in Providence.

How did he do it? He put his mind towards getting there. He has the gift of concentration. That was his motive power. Obstacle after obstacle came up, but undaunted, he pushed ahead. He won friends, saw his opportunities here and there, used them without much demonstration. He worked hard. He believes in hard work and that it will get you anywhere if you keep at it long enough.

It is perseverance that pays with knowledge mixed in it and lots of common sense.

Rum Runners Rate as Smugglers to Coast Guard

Editor Boston American:

Did it ever occur to you and the readers of your paper to stop and think about the humane work of the coast guard when they are reading an article with reference to the capture of some rum-runner who has run afoul the coast guard. There are a good many law abiding citizens who read the articles and then think the coast guard is composed of a gang of bloodthirsty men who do nothing but chase and kill rum-runners on sight.

The enforcement of the National Prohibition Act is not one of the duties of the coast guard, and when a rum capture is made it is made under the duty imposed upon the men in the service to stop smuggling. This duty was first imposed upon them when the coast guard was organized in 1790.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, the following life saving activities were accomplished:

Lives saved or persons rescued	6,004
Persons on vessels assisted	29,057
Persons in distress cared for	4,033
Vessels boarded and papers examined	57,074
Regattas and Marine parades patrolled	433
Instances of lives saved and vessels assisted	5,241
Derelicts and other obstructions removed	233
Value of vessels assisted (inc. cutter, cargoes)	$19,018,072

From these figures it may be seen that the coast guard is employed mostly in the saving of lives and property at sea, and as one of the many who serve their government in this work, it is requested that the general public do not form snap judgments in our seizure cases where some of the gangsters of this country may be wounded, but to think of the good things we do throughout the year. Rum chasing is not a pleasant job to any of us.

A COAST GUARDSMAN.

Modern Civilization Branded "Zululand"

Editor Boston American:

Press dispatches tell us that Col. Fitzmaurice of the Irish Free State is about to divorce his wife and is engaged to double marry a German baroness.

American readers will remember him flying over here two years ago, with Koehl and Huenefeld, while his wife and child kept vigil with their prayers.

"Off with the old, on with the new." Well, fame is fleeting and he will soon be forgotten. Later he may find another great love and the baroness will be forgotten.

They laugh at "The Gay Nineties" and "The Mauve Decade," but in those days men were men. Modern civilization is now a Zululand. P. J. L.

WOMEN OF INDIA NOT SLAVES, SAYS BEGUM

London, Nov. 22 (AP)—"In the west you feed the body and starve the soul; in the east we starve the body and feed the soul," the beautiful Begum Shah Nawaz, beautiful Indian woman delegate to the Round Table Conference told the Daily Mail today in discussing the differences and similarities of British and Indian women. The Begum, whose brilliant address to the conference on Thursday thrilled her listeners, deprecated the idea that the purdah, or veiling, system in India involved slavery of Indian woman.

"The Freedom of women in England is not greater than that of many women in India," she said.

"Even women who still are in the purdah are very happy, and you must not get the impression that being in purdah means being kept in a cage and tyrannized by a domineering husband. They are queens in their homes, not slaves."

The Begum said Indian women were determined to make the best use of western civilization, combining it with the best in their own.

"But they never will wear western dress and I don't think they ever will smoke in public, although many women living in Purdah smoke the hookahs as their mothers and grandmothers did.

Attempt to Sell Fur Coat Jails 3 Here

An attempt to sell a raccoon coat valued at $1500 to Sergt. Mark Leonard for $5 landed James Pava of Brighton st, West End, and two confederates in court today. Pava told Leonard he was given the coat by two men to sell, and that they would meet him within a short time. Leonard waited and the two men failed to appear. They gave their names as Phillip Crory of Temple st., and Carl Wilson of Stamford st. The three were held in $500 each for trial December 2.

17 Charters Given Industrial Banks

Charters to form 17 loaning corporations throughout the state were granted to Reginald Herbert Smith, George W. Wickham and Grafton L. Wilson, it was announced today by Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook.

The corporations will be known as the industrial bankers of Boston, Worcester, Milford, Cambridge, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Fitchburg, Marlboro, Medford, Natick, Newton, Northampton, Peabody, Plymouth, Roslindale and Woburn.

Bay State Line to N. Y. Discontinued

Providence, R. I., Nov. 22 (AP)—The Evening Bulletin today prints an interview with J. J. Pelley, president of the New Haven railroad, saying the New England Steamship Company, subsidiary concern, will discontinue the Bay State Line, operating between this port and New York, as soon as arrangements can be made. Lack of traffic is given as the reason.

Four Held in Rum Case

Lowell, Nov. 22 (AP)—Anthony Pino and Joseph T. Pontz, both of Lawrence, were held in $1500 bail for continued hearings when arraigned in federal court before Commissioner R. E. Walsh on charges of illegally manufacturing liquor in North Chelmsford, November 15. Mr. and Mrs. Rosario Capolo, owners of the property, were held in $500 bail.

Missed Only One Game

Springfield, Nov. 22 (INS)—On the completion of Yale Bowl at the 50-yard line today will be Ralph W. Ellis, ex-mayor and banker, who has missed only one of the 48 Harvard and Yale football games.

How would you like to loose 19 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

That's just what one western woman did—How happy she is.

How would you like to lose a load of unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—then get an $1 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks. Then each morning in a glass of hot water every morning—not more than one—take the exercise which Kruschen will indicate herein in this newspaper each day and when you have finished the contents of the bottle look at the scales again.

Now you can watch all the people who pay attention to dieting and the use of pounds of fat—now you will see the disappearance of double chins and abdomens and you'll also know that these ill fitting clothes and Kruschen charts that your blood, nerves and glands must have to function properly have presented you with glowing health.

After that you'll want to walk around and say to your friends, "One 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat person's money."

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts.

TWO SHOT IN ST. LOUIS GANG WAR OUTBREAK

St. Louis, Nov. 22 (AP)—Gang warfare flared again here today. Lester Barth and Dewey Goebel, principals in a reputed split in the cuckoo game, being shot with machine guns from a passing automobile as they sat in their parked car. Barth was killed and Goebel was expected to die.

Witnesses said that as the two men sat in their car a sedan passed slowly with five men in it who poured a heavy machine gun fire at the gangsters' parked car.

Police say they had been informed recently by underworld tipsters that Barth and Goebel were suspected by cuckoo gang members of leading a machine attack on a distillery.

RUSSIA CUT OFF BY TELEPHONE

Berlin, Nov. 22 (AP)—The long distance telephone department of the ministry of posts said all attempts today to establish a telephone connection with Moscow and other Russian cities failed.

Scores Pay Final Tribute to Hiram W. Ricker

Paying their final tribute to the "Man from Maine," scores of Massachusetts people left Boston today to attend the funeral in Poland Spring of Hiram W. Ricker, Sr.

Two special parlor cars were attached to the "Flying Yankee" which left here at 9.30 a. m. and was due in Danville Junction at 1 p. m. In this party were 40 Bostonians, and their numbers were augumented by many on the train who were unable to obtain reservations.

The party will return to Boston tonight at 7.30 o'clock.

Arthur E. Marsh of Boston, nephew of the late Poland Spring hotel man, was in the party. The group included several Massachusetts hotel men and members of the New England Council, which last night concluded its sixth annual session in Boston—a conference which Mr. Ricker two hours before his sudden death had promised to attend.

The honorary bearers, most of whom were on the train, included Col. W. A. Barron, B. F. Cushing of the Statler Hotel, Arthur Race of the Copley-Plaza, A. W. Hodgdon, Perry Fairfield, Harry Randall, Charles Sumner Cook, Prof. Ralph Hunt and Frederic A. Mansfield.

Others on the train included M. C. Prior, assistant publisher of the Boston Evening American; Mr. and Mrs. George Nay of Wellesley, William A. McKenney, George Clark, Roy Rice, W. L. Dickson, C. F. Shirley of Forbes Lithographing Service.

PERENNIAL DRAMA OF FREIBURG

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

REALLY GREAT DRAMAS drift in upon us about once in a lifetime. And then if they are truly deserving they remain from generation to generation; even from century to century. Over in New York on 44th st., a saucy little comedy from ancient Greece is flippantly billed as being in its 2341st year. Well, it may be that old, but its activities have been, to say the least, rather intermittent.

* * *

IN MUCH MORE solemn and in thoroughly convincing fashion, the Freiburg Passion Play will move into these regions in another week and lay genuinely honest claim for first place in the drama's longevity ledger. This claim is set up on good theater fundamentals—performances. There is nothing elusive in the history of the Freiburg Passion Play. It started in 1264 A. D. and except for 10 years in the late 16th century, when all Christendom seemed to be shaking with chills and fever, there have been no interruptions in its annual presentation. When Adolf Fassnacht reveals himself as the Christus at the Boston Opera House, December 1, the attending playgoer will look upon the eighth Fassnacht in direct line to play that impressive role.

Nicholas Young

WHAT MAY NOT BE generally known is that the portrayal of the Christus is an inherited honor, so decided by the Prince of Baden in 1760, when the fortunes of the Passion Players had fallen so low that the annual presentation was given by one of the faithful who manipulated wax dummies made up for the different parts. Naturally, this situation appalled the pilgrims who had made their way to the Black Forest; nor did it go so well with the pious villagers of Oberammergau. It was then that reform and organization came about, with the role of the Christus ascribed to the Fassnacht family and made inheritable.

AND SO, through the centuries, a Fassnacht has served piously in the most impressive, inspiring role ever given an earnest actor. You may be reminded that the personnel of the Freiburg Passion Play is totally professional and that its material affairs are linked with the Freiburg University. There is little in this that suggests simple children of the wilderness presenting themselves in religious ceremony as a means of lifting a ravaging plague. But any drama that survives 666 years of earthly turmoil must of a dead certainty keep fully abreast of time's fluctuations.

THE FREIBURG PASSION PLAY is more pageant than drama; it is dramatic spectacle on the grand scale. The life of Christ is presented in a series of episodes, with a background of stirring choral ensembles. For the Boston presentation alone there will be 200 voices, including the entire McDowell Club, members of the Handel and Haydn Society and 50 selected voices from Boston University.

Show Business Has Its Bread and Butter Side, With Many Crumbs of Comfort

QUEENIE SMITH

MISS SMITH is a diminutive lassie with a large amount of beauty and ability. She is the star of "The Street Singer" coming to the Shubert Monday to remain for two weeks.

BARBARA WILLISON AND FRANK MARINO

MR. MARINO is apparently making his appeal in vain to Miss Willison in "Street Scene" at the Wilbur. Evidently she doesn't believe in signs, either manual or printed, "For Rent."

MURIEL ROBINSON

MISS ROBINSON will be seen in "Purity" opening at the Plymouth Dec. 1. The play will star Florence Reed, famous actress well known to audiences in New England cities.

GREAT 'KICK' IN BOOSTS FOR FUN

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

IN A DEAD TREE, honey! Treasure trove under a stone; in the ugly oyster a gloriously beautiful pearl. Masked behind a rollicking title one finds drama tense and taut, unreeling through sequences that hold one gripped. There is abundant comedy, and of amazingly good quality, but the play is the thing. That, in a nutshell, is the sterling mark set upon "Min and Bill," feature now at the Loew's State.

* * *

THIS MASTERFUL MOVIE, opening yesterday, marked the change in the State policy. Heretofore, the first showings of the theater's photoplays has been on Monday of each week; hereafter, the opening day will be Friday. Manager Joseph Brennan may consider himself fortunate that so splendid a talkie inaugurates the new program; for "Min and Bill," despite that misnomer of a title, is classy film fare, worthy the punchiest shortword name that Hollywood might devise. The novel, "Dark Star," from which the tale is taken, seems appropriate; but perhaps was passed over because of the silent picture of that title made a dozen years ago. Anyway, the State is most auspiciously launched in its new policy.

Marie Dressler

NOT OFTEN DOES a reviewer get so great a surprise and so unexpected a pleasure as comes with the revelation that "Min and Bill" is not, as one might believe it is going to be, an uproariously funny picture with Marie Dressler playing a "one-woman show." True, this comedienne does shine; but she has more than mere comic stuff. For the film is brimming with the poignancy of tragedy. The story speeds along in the unfolding, thanks to able direction. It digs down deep, plays upon the emotions, holds the interest always, never lags, never is dull. Its mirth is refreshing, and properly leavens the heavier passages.

THOSE WHO HAVE read the novel know the plot too well to waste words retelling. The locale is a fishing village and its fishing fleet. We are taken into the lives of these simple folk; and so admirably is the "atmosphere" created that one almost smells the mudflats in the darkened theater. The tang of the sea is in the air as the scenes swiftly weave along; it all is made to seem very real indeed. Here is an example of a wonderfully well-directed movie. George Hill has done other good things, but nothing better than this. His camerns swing and sweep as they should in true motion picture, so that the lights and shadows play their role, far more powerful in effecting the imagination than any mere dialogue could be.

MISS DRESSLER is at last a star. She is one of the outstanding figures in tabloidom, and has stolen almost every picture, even when her part has been small. But once was she bested; that was by Greta Garbo in "Ann Christie." In "Min and Bill," she and Wallace Beery are superb, and they have the clever Marjorie Rambeau to back them up. It matters little that the rest of the cast is namby-pamby; "Min and Bill" is soul-stirring entertainment.

REAL CHILLS CHASING UP THE SPINE

By J. J. WHITE

When "The Blue Ghost," mystery thriller at the Majestic, opened at the Forrest Theater, New York City, last season, a foreword by its producer, Jimmie Cooper, was inserted in the program. It read in part:

"I am offering "The Blue Ghost". . . unadulterated. . . unsugar-coated. . . without meaning . . . presenting no social or moral problem. . . strictly an evening's entertainment, replete with good old melodrama, hokum and fun."

Now if anyone is competent to live up to such a promise it is the Jimmie Cooper in question, who during his 20 odd years' experience in the American theater has done everything from acting to producing the many productions in which he has appeared, or was interested in.

His credo is simple. He does not believe that the manager or producer should publicly express personal opinions as to the merits of any theatrical offering, but should strive to present what the public wants, and that is a point that may be always decided by the bo. office results, a criterion that never goes wrong. Millions of dollars have been wasted through managerial endeavors to force upon the public some brand of play which did not appeal to them nor for which they cared. He goes on to say:

"There is a vast amount of commercialism and business methods necessary in conducting theatrical affairs, just as there are in connection with any enterprise wherein the public has to be catered to. In other words, if you don't happen to have what the public want, keep striving until you learn what they really do want, and success will invariably come your way."

WILL TELL OF SHAVIAN WIT

Maurice Colbourne, English actor-manager and author, who is particularly identified with the plays of Bernard Shaw, will be a visitor in Boston through the fortnight beginning December 1, when he will deliver a number of addresses before clubs and schools on the personality and works of Shaw; the drama in general and the work in America of the Theater Guild.

Mr. Colbourne is an honor graduate of Oxford, a close friend of Shaw, John Masefield and other literary celebrities, and is himself the author of several books, the latest of which is "The Real Bernard Shaw."

As an actor Mr. Colbourne appeared in America in the Theater Guild's production of "Saint Joan." Last season he toured Canada and the Pacific Coast with his own company in a repertory of Shaw plays.

AMERICA FORGES TO FRONT AS LEADER IN THE ARTS

By QUEENIE SMITH

Star of "The Street Singer" at the Shubert

America seems well on her way to another crown as the symbol of world supremacy. This time it lies outside the fields of science, industry, commerce and sports, all of which have previously felt the influence and apparent supremacy of American endeavor.

Next in line seems to be music and the arts, but especially musical expression and dancing. Europe and particularly Italy have dominated this field in the past, but the time is rapidly approaching and sometimes seems right around the corner when this country will definitely assume leadership. We are a young people. Art has been a product of age-old culture. Up to now we in America have been so busy forging to the front in commerce, industry and science that we haven't given much serious thought as a whole people to the arts. More recently we have relaxed somewhat and have gone in for sports and today excel in every branch. Now as a nation we are turning to the arts—seriously. Our higher standard of musical plays and the great increase in symphony orchestras have contributed tremendously to a deeper understanding and wider appreciation of music and the dance.

Queenie Smith

This broadened interest has expanded these fields as a means of livelihood and more young people every year are turning to the music halls, grand opera and musical comedy stages for professional careers.

Then another medium that is carrying us along as though on a wave toward world leadership is the musical comedy and modern operetta ensemble where dancing and singing today, of a very high order is requisite to membership. Newcomers have to go through long periods of intensive taining in both departments even after they are adjudged satisfactory raw material. These youngsters are grounded correctly in fundamentals and the avenue of higher development is opened for them.

I have seen boys and girls in shows with me on the road and away from their teachers who have spent many hours every day in the theater practicing. These are the boys and girls who go to the front and become stars in the musical comedy, operetta and grand opera.

PAINT NEEDS OFT THE AID OF POWDER

By HARRIS MORGAN

Apropos of a recent announcement that a new system of reflecting artificial light has been invented, which will virtually do away with the necessity of actors using grease paint, it might perhaps be interesting to note that one of the most prominent actresses on the American stage, Miss Madge Kennedy, starring in "Michael and Mary," at the Plymouth, has practically discarded grease paint as an adjunct to her stage makeup.

Before going on the stage, Miss Kennedy studied painting for several years. The knowledge of color and line which Miss Kennedy had acquired during her art student days was not forgotten. Instead, it became of invaluable assistance to her in mastering the mysteries of theatrical makeup. She simply changed her medium from oils and canvas to cosmetics and her own charming face, and applied her talents accordingly. Consequently, everything she does to her face is thought out from an artistic standpoint. There is a reason for every tone and every line.

Off stage she doesn't use any artificial coloring at all; and before the footlights, instead of the coat of grease paint, which most stage folk find indispensable to a smooth and lasting makeup, Miss Kennedy uses a liquid preparation.

"Grease paint, I think," declared Miss Kennedy, "no matter how thinly applied, gives one a flat and obviously made up appearance. By using a liquid white and a little red lip salve I am able to retain the warmth and glow of real skin; which, in turn, enables the audience to clearly discern many slight facial expressions that would be completely lost were my face masked with grease paint."

Sugar Sweetie

MARION NIXON

MISS NIXON is sweetness personified in "Scarlet Pages" on screen at the Bowdoin.

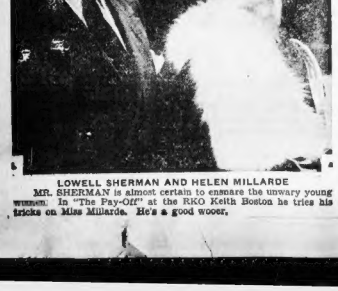
POLLY WANTS TO LAUGH

Since slapstick days, comedy has been the forte of Polly Moran, who appears with William Haines at Loew's Orpheum the coming week in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, "Remote Control."

Miss Moran began as a chorus girl, but soon graduated to vaudeville, playing all the leading theaters in the United States, as well as the music halls of England and South Africa. In filling her variety engagements, she has crossed the Atlantic 14 times. She began in pictures in 1914, under contract to Mack Sennett.

After making many short comedies with Ben Turpin, Charlie Murray and others of note, she returned to the stage for a short respite. She soon came back to Hollywood, this time under long-term contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Sheik Shows Hand o' Hearts



LOWELL SHERMAN AND HELEN MILLARDE

MR. SHERMAN is almost certain to ensnare the unwary young woman. In "The Pay-Off" at the RKO Keith Boston he tries his tricks on Miss Millarde. He's a good wooer.

Werrenrath to Appear Week from Tomorrow

On Sunday afternoon, November 30, in Symphony Hall, at 3:30, Reinald Werrenrath will make his only visit to Boston of the season to give a recital. The baritone announces the following program: Lieder: Biterolf, and Lieber Alles, by Wolf; Ein Freidhof, by Franz; Der Traum, by Rubinstein; Licht, by Sinding; Danish songs: Landsaab, and Hvis du har varme Tanker, by Borresen; Irmelin Rose, by Nielsen; Silde ved Nat hin Kolde by Lange-Muller; three South African songs: Victory, The Exile and Dancers Come Up, by Wendt; recent British and American ballads: Limehouse, by Hyden; Sweet Apple, by Spier; The Return, by Holliday; Collette, by Harrhy, and My Sword for the King, by Head.

The New Play

But one new attraction will move upon the town on Monday to give life to a plodding season. This will be Queenie Smith in "The Street Singer," at the Shubert—a return engagement. The story itself concerns Americans abroad. In personnel there is much to intrigue the playgoer. Supporting Miss Smith is the massive George Hassell, a comedian of many accomplishments; also Harry K. Morton, Nick Long, Jr., Archie Leach and Frank Lalor. There are other Thespians and dancers, too, who round out an expensive ensemble. "The Street Singer" is the work of many men; Cyrus Wood and Edgar Smith wrote the book, Graham John penned the lyrics, and Nicholas Kemper made the music.

Ghosts Trail Fair Charmer

SEENA OWEN

MISS OWEN is beset by many thrilling perils in "The Blue Ghost," mystery play at the Majestic. She is an actress of beauty and ability who gained fame in motion pictures.

Former Somerville Actress to Be Bride

There is news of interest forthcoming in the announcement that Rhea Diveley, who some seasons ago was a member of the Somerville players, will be married on Thanksgiving Day to Nicholas Borneman, art expert, of The Hague. The marriage will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. Rexford Diveley in Kansas City, and Mr. and Mrs. Borneman will establish their residence in New York city, where the groom is associated with the art dealer, Edwards Jonas of New York and Paris.

Miss Diveley will retire from the stage, having completed the past season in Chicago in the part of Nina in O'Neill's "Strange Interlude."

Plays Remaining

"The Blue Ghost" at the Majestic. (Third week.) Spooks take a hand in this and make it a lively evening.

STURGES CHOSEN TO WRITE COMEDY FOR CHEVALIER

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Los Angeles, Nov. 22—Filmland will soon welcome Preston Sturges and his millionaire bride. All sorts of talented folk come to our town but few will be greeted with more interest than this young man who shot into the limelight when he wrote "Strictly Dishonorable," the most successfully sensational play that Broadway has seen since "Abie's Irish Rose."

Mr. Sturges has been signed by Paramount as the writer of Maurice Chevalier's next comedy. Although the story will be written in the East, Mr. Sturges will accompany M. Chevalier here at the end of January. Ernest Lubitsch, who did such a fine job in "The Love Parade," will again direct Chevalier. That ought to be a combination that will bring money into the box office and give Paramount a good picture.

There was a time I used to lament Zane Grey's use of the word "Purple," purple atmosphere, purple hazes and purple mountains. That was before I came to live in California and saw for myself that there was purple in them thar hills. I no longer wonder at Zane Grey's novels of the West. I read them. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has just bought "The Shepherd of Guadalupe" from Mr. Grey. I heard it and that it will be Jack Gilbert's next picture. At least Zane Grey's stories have plenty of atmosphere. If it's a Western Jack should be glad. In fact, I'd like to see him in a Western. But I never want to see him wearing the rags that he wore in "Way for a Sailor." I am just one of them "wimmen" who likes to have her heroes dressed up.

Jack Gilbert

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's troublesome red-haired boy, Charles Bickford, will no longer have cause to loudly wail over his misfortunes. He and M. G. M. have mutually broken their contract. Mr. Bickford will free-lance. The boy is a good actor but he has lots to learn. When he was given the chance of his life in "Dynamite" and was brought practically as an unknown into the limelight he had nothing but bad words to say about the picture. His ingratitude to Cecil de Mille was difficult to overlook, but he is young and maybe he will learn. Charles Bickford will have no trouble getting jobs because he is a good actor and maybe he has learned his lesson.

With Jacob Cohn sitting in Harry Cohn's chair at Columbia production is going ahead. Doesn't seem natural without Harry going into ecstacies over a Columbia picture or trying to sell us the idea of a story. Yet we have known Jack as long as we have known Harry and we like him too. Yesterday this story came out of Columbia showing that production is going along merrily. Howard Hawks' work was so good in "The Criminal Code" that he was signed immediately to do another picture.

We hear so much about stage sensations these days that the word sensation has been relegated to the non-superlative class. Anyway, Junior Laemmle says that Betty Davis, who played in the "Solid South," a production of Richard Bennett's play, and in "Broken Dishes" before that, is going to make the natives sit up and take notice.

Betty Davis

He is bringing her out from New York as a Universal Player and the chances are her first big picture will be "Mississippi" opposite Lupe Velez. "Mississippi" won't be made until spring, but it has been in the talking so long that it will be greeted with interest. In fact, I had thought it was all ready made, which shows how dumb I am.

SILENCE MAY BE GOLDEN

Lowell Sherman, who directed and acted in "The Pay-Off," now at the RKO Keith-Boston, has a strong disinclination to talk about himself. He is the hardest man to interview in Hollywood. Such questions as "Why did you succeed?" "To what do you owe your marvelous ability?" and "What are your ideas about love?" do nothing but arouse his nimble wit and tongue, which on occasion can be extremely caustic.

However, if he is approached on a matter of intelligence he is charming, and likes nothing better than a discussion of the theater, its psychological angles, or its artists. On one occasion he was asked why he became famous. He replied:

"Not by answering foolish questions."

Many Numbers on the Roland Hayes Program

Roland Hayes will give a recital tomorrow afternoon in Symphony Hall at 3:30, as part of his present seventh tour of America. The great tenor will be accompanied by Percival Parham in a program which includes "Voghe Lucil" and "Alma del Core," by Caldara; "Vuoi che Parta" from Arioati's Opera, "Lucia Verus"; "Se mi vuoi," "Se knauert," "Dass sie her Gewesen," by Schubert; "Schone Fremde," "Alte Laute," and "Auftrage," by Schumann; "Danse Macabre," by Saint-Saens; "Beau Soir," by Debussy; "Serenade," by Meditner; "The Heart Worships," by Holst, and the following Negro Spirituals: "O, Let Me Shine," "I'm Troubled," "Dat's All I Want," and "New Born Again."

PICKS TALENT AT SCOLLAY

Gus Edwards, maker of stage and screen stars, was in Boston yesterday, seeking talent for footlight and movie work. As a result of his visit, seven Greater Bostonians were made happy when he chose them for theatrical careers.

At the Scollay Sq. Theater he met hundreds of stage-struck persons, each anxious to get an opportunity to perform for the man who has an uncanny sense of discovering talent. From 9 in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, there was a steady stream, ranging from two years old to 30, Mr. Edwards announced the selection of the following persons: Marjorie McGonigle, 102 Gilbert rd., Belmont, 14, toe dancer; Helen Kapins, 109 Homestead st., Roxbury, singer on the type of Sophia Tucker, although only 12 years old; Dorothy Duffy, 20, of 83 Calumet st., Revere, tap dancer; Marjorie Huntley, 223 Revere st., West Newton, Hawaiian dancer; Katherine Bryner, 153 Cornell st., Roslindale, toe and tap dancer; George Gould, 91 Dakota st., Dorchester, tenor; Edward L. Conn, 22 Forest ave., Everett, baritone.

Of those selected, those under 18 will have an opportunity for screen work, while the others will be placed with one of Mr. Edwards' troupes for stage work.

Edward L. Conn has been placed with Mr. Edwards' newest act, "The Tree Sitters," which comes to the Scollay, starting Monday.

From 12 to 1 o'clock, Mr. Edwards was host to newspaper writers at a luncheon in the Hotel Manger.

People's Symphony at Jordan Hall Tomorrow

The People's Symphony Orchestra will give the second concert of its season tomorrow afternoon. Thompson Stone, conductor, will lead the men in Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, the Prelude to Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel," Liszt's "Les Preludes," and the "Blue Danube" waltz of Strauss. Marie Blanchard, soprano, will be the assisting artist.

Tosi Musicale

The first of the annual series of Pupil Musicales will be held tomorrow afternoon at the studio of Mrs. Alma Tosi, at 457 Audubon rd. Ethel Vanneman, Clara Camerlengo, Grace Manchester, Evelina Cretea and Mary Ferry will be the performers.

LIKE FASHION SHOW SHINE THE GOWNS

Like a course in fashion instruction are the style creations worn by Constance Bennett and other members of the cast in her Pathe picture, "Sin Takes a Holiday," at RKO Keith's today. The smart and sophisticated Miss Bennett, whose offstage wardrobe usually comes from the most exclusive ateliers of Paris, is enthusiastic over the clothes designed for her by Gwen Wakeling. As her favorite costume among the many delightful ones she wears in the course of the picture Miss Bennett selected an ensemble of black kasha and jet galyak. The frock, a fitted one which extends almost to the ankles, is of the kasha, entirely untrimmed. A big length jacquette, semi-beret hat and bag are of galyak. A scarf of white ermine provides the only note of color.

Constance Bennett

The same combination of black and white is featured in an ensemble of erect pile velvet designed for formal afternoon wear by Miss Bennett. Frock and jacquette are both of the velvet, while a large roll collar is made from blanche ermine. This jacquette has short sleeves, and long white gloves are worn with it.

Featuring the new flared hemline is an evening gown of peach lace which is extremely becoming to Miss Bennett. The gown is floor length and the hem is lined with bouffant braid to make it stand out. A belt of matching grosgrain ribbon outlines the natural waistline. A tailleur is developed in grey and black tweed, while a less formal dressmaker suit is made from rose beige crepe romaine. The latter is trimmed with blue fox.

Mutual Burlesque Shows

Gayety — Howard

A special midnight performance will be held at the Gayety on the eve of Thanksgiving when the whole cut of the "Step Lively Girls" company will put on a general gala show in a real spirit of festivity. Evelyn Whitney is the featured feminine player. She is a singing, dancing, prancing miss, whose work has won for her a wide reputation. In addition to her, the show carries three featured players. The three comedians are Harry Bentley, Charles (Bimbo) Davis and George Levy. Jack LaMont is the straight man. Jess Mack is the juvenile.

Jean Lee

Coming Monday to the popular Old Howard will be La Villa Maye, presenting one of the most artistic features on the bill. She has long been a favorite on the Mutual wheel. This week there will be two special midnight shows, one on Thanksgiving Eve, and one Friday at 11:30 p. m. At both shows Miss Maye will be offering something special. With the "Nite Life in Paris" company will be found Charles (Tramp) McNally whose wise lingo has made him a star in burlesque. "The Garden of Figures" is one of the big scenes.

La Villa Maye

WET RIGHT TO THE SKIN

"Derelict," at the Metropolitan, probably will remain in George Bancroft's mind as the most thorough drenching of his life. He was wet, sopping wet, throughout each camera day for the two weeks the company was on location.

"Derelict," as indicated by its title, is a drama of the sea; a thrilling, big-scale production full of blinding storms, sea-soup fogs, collisions between 4000-ton vessels and a great storm that furnishes the picture its chief climax.

It was when the storm sequences were being filmed, with the aid of thousands of gallons of cold sea water, that Bancroft's physique was taxed to the utmost. So terrific was this continued storm scene that oilskins, sou'westers and boots were no protection. As a result Bancroft and the other members of his company spent their days in a most uncomfortable state.

DOESN'T LIKE DEEP STUFF

Although most great comedians are said to have a secret ambition to appear in heavy drama, this is not the case with Harold Lloyd, the youth who made ordinary specialties his trademark for fun on the screen. His picture, "Feet First," is now at the Uptown and Olympic.

Lloyd recently told an interviewer that tragedy could never be down his alley and that he would never appear in a "heavy" role. The reason is that he loves to do comedy-thrill pictures and never had a yen for the "deep-stuff."

But he hastened to reassure the questioner that comedy, however frothy, has a mission in the scheme of human progress. Comedy never is high purpose, he thinks.

"Comedy is positive and tragedy is negative to my way of thinking," volunteered Lloyd. "What does one gain by shedding tears over the demise of Desdemona? But comedy on the other hand—well, there's much truth in that old saw about laugh and be healthy.' I believe in it implicitly."

CHURCHES

THANKSGIVING SERVICES AND OTHERS

REV. M. L. BULLOCK.

A communication has come from that friendly church in Auburndale —the Centenary Methodist, where the Rev. Earl E. Harper was once minister. The present pastor, the Rev. Maurice L. Bullock, announces a thanksgiving sermon tomorrow morning, "The Optimism of Thanksgiving." The church school will have special exercises at 9:45. In the evening the entire cantata of "The Holy City," will be rendered, by the church choir.

THANKSGIVING IN NEWTON TOMORROW

Out in West Newton for the first time in 300 years, more or less, five denominational churches have made arrangements for a union Thanksgiving service. The thanks that they will offer up will be in part for the fact that such brotherliness is possible. Among the five churches are two colored churches, never before taking part with the other three, and for this the colored citizens will give especial thanks. This historic service is to be held in the Lincoln Park Baptist Church with the Rev. Boynton Merrill of the Second Church, Congregational, preaching the sermon.

UNION THANKSGIVING

Back Bay churches will gather together in Christian unity Thursday morning in the Repertory Theater on Huntington ave. for a common service of Thanksgiving. This gathering is under the auspices of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches.

THANKSGIVING AT DUDLEY STREET

Churchgoers who attend the Dudley St. Baptist church believe that through sacred and music thanks can best be expressed. A program has been, therefore, arranged by the Concorde Quartet and by the junior choir of 75 voices: "Now Thank We All Our God," by Cruger; "We Give Thanks to Thee," by Huerter; "Bringing in the Sheaves," arranged, and "There Shall be Showers of Blessings," by Silsbeven.

REV. CLEVELAND L. WILSON

"Gratitude" is the title for a Thanksgiving Sunday morning sermon by the Rev. C. L. Wilson of the Baptist church, Chelsea. Special music will make the services notable and appropriate with both the senior and junior choirs taking part. At 7 p. m. comes a Harvest concert given by the Sunday school.

GIVE THANKS

Hymns without music, and simple ceremonies such as prevailed three hundred years ago will characterize a Colonial Thanksgiving service at the First Methodist Episcopal Church on Temple st. tomorrow morning under the direction of the Rev. Harry Belmont Hill who will preach on "God's Benefits."

WORD FROM BELMONT

The following notice comes from the Belmont Congregational church: "The Rev. Joseph W. Beach, home on furlough from philanthropic work in the Near East, will preach in the Payson Park Church on Sunday, Nov. 23d. Mr. Beach's brother, the Rev. David N. Beach, is minister of this church.

In the evening there will be an illustrated lecture: 'Landmarks and Shrines of the Caucasus.'"

STUDENT DAY AT MT. VERNON CHURCH

Prof. Rheinhold Niebuhr of the Union Seminary, New York, will address a company of students at the Mt. Vernon Church at the annual student gathering immediately following the morning sermon by the new pastor from New York. The professor will direct the attention of the students to unemployment and lead a discussion upon the subject as it faces millions today the world over.

In the evening the Young People's Society will also be host to the visitor from Union Seminary who will then talk on "The Mechanical Man in a Mechanical Age."

DORCHESTER CHURCHES IN UNION SERVICE.

The Protestant churches near Dorchester Center are arranging for a great Thanksgiving service to be held at 7 a. m. in the Second Church (Congregational) at Codman sq., on Thanksgiving morning, November 27. The service will include a devotional period and a testimonial period in which expressions of Thanksgiving will be offered by the congregation.

TREMONT TEMPLE

"Heaven and Hell"

Here is a topic which the Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher believes should attract many curious people in addition to his regular congregation. He will illustrate his sermon in a most interesting way, he says, and declares it will constitute the only illustrated sermon of this type he ever preached. He extends a special invitation to all people who claim there is no Hell.

Rockefeller Office for Dr. Alan Gregg

New York, Nov. 22 (US)—Appointment of Dr. Alan Gregg to succeed the late Dr. Richard M. Pearce, Jr., as director of medical sciences for the Rockefeller Foundation is announced here. Dr. Gregg, Harvard graduate, will assume his new duties January 1.

Union Service

THE REV. SAMUEL M. LINDSAY of the First Baptist Church, Brookline, will give the Thanksgiving Day sermon—for the Greater Boston Federation of Churches, Tuesday morning at the Repertory Theater 10:30. Ministers of 10 denominations will take part in the service. Lt. Governor W. S. Youngman will read the Governor's proclamation.

Among the Catholics the Coming Week

Question Box—Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J.

The tenth annual musical entertainment of St. Augustine's Parish will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Nov. 24-25-26, in St. Augustine's Hall on E St., South Boston.

The St. Alphonsus Players have chosen for their first dramatic offering of the current season, the popular dramatic comedy, "The Whole Town's Talking."

This comedy of American life will be presented in St. Alphonsus Hall, Smith st., Roxbury, on Monday and Tuesday evenings, Nov. 24 and 25, at 8:15.

The novena in honor of St. Therese of Lisieux will take place next Wednesday at St. Stephen's Church, Hanover st., Boston, with devotions at 12:20, 3:30, 5:20 and 7:45 p. m.

The annual reunion of St. Joseph's parish in Holbrook takes place this year on Monday evening, November 24, at 8 o'clock in the town hall.

The pastor, Rev. John L. Callahan, is making an "every member past and present" campaign and reports a splendid response from all sources. Every effort is being made to make this reunion the most successful the parish has ever conducted.

CARDINALS AND BISHOPS FACE SITUATION

A meeting of the Catholic hierarchy of the United States, recently held in the Catholic University of Washington, D. C., recognized the unemployment situation and authorized the Most Rev. Edward J. Hanna, Archbishop of San Francisco, to issue a statement in the name of all the bishops.

Seventy cardinals, archbishops and bishops of the United States assembled for this annual meeting. His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell received from His Holiness the Pope the following message:

The Holy Father is most appreciative of Your Eminence's message conveying an expression of the loyalty and devotion of the hierarchy of the United States. His Holiness wishes Your Eminence to assure the hierarchy that this offering as a thoughtful tribute of affection is most gracefully received. The Holy Father prays that the meeting of the bishops will produce abundant fruits for welfare of our Holy Mother the Church and the sanctification of her children. The Holy Father bestows the Apostolic "Benzing on the hierarchy, clergy, religious and faithful of the United States.

CARDINAL PACELLI.

REV. J. SHADE FRANKLIN

A young clergyman of the Baptist Church, West Newton, whose united Sunday evening community service includes several of the churches of that town has planned a series of three sermons on "Protestant Foundations for More Abundant Christian Unity." Tomorrow it will be "The True Priesthood," on the 30th. "The True Catholicism," and on December 7 "True Christian Democracy." Tomorrow evening music will be furnished by the chancel choir of the Second Congregational church.

DR. JUMP

The "Song of Thanksgiving" will be rendered by the chorus choir of Union Congregational Church at both morning and evening services tomorrow. Frank McBride, the musical director will conduct.

What Men Might Have Been

What Will Men of the Future Be?

WE MIGHT HAVE LIVED IN WATER

President Knudsen, of the big Chevrolet Company, lunching with a friend in New York this week, asked:

"Have you read in the American Weekly those articles by Professor Thevenin, speculating on men of the future, what they will be like and what they might have been today, if circumstances had been different?"

The picture above shows an illustration from Professor Thevenin's scientific article that will appear in the American Weekly section of tomorrow's BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER.

Instead of being land animals, Professor Thevenin conceives it possible that men might have been sea-dwelling animals, or amphibian, like the seal, spending most of the time in the water, occasionally coming up on the land.

All life began in the sea. At first plants grew above water on islands, says Professor Thevenin, then some of the smaller marine creatures crawled on the land, then came the insects, then gradually through evolution all the other forms of animal life, and, finally, man to boss the entire performance.

We MIGHT have stayed in the water and developed there, with webbed hands and feet and unlimited supplies of food from fishes.

If that had happened men would not have created fire, not needing it in the water. There would have been no industry and men would have remained savages.

As to what men may be in the future, who can tell? Only twelve thousand years ago man had no better weapon than a sharpened flint. Now he has the machine gun, the airplane, the submarine.

What will he have a million years hence?

EARTH'S MOST EXPENSIVE STOCKINGS.

Deeply interested in science, the American Weekly which you will receive with tomorrow's BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER, covers also the whole field of human interest, including the humble field of stockings.

You see above, for instance, the most expensive pair of stockings in the world. It would be much better if ladies would concentrate attention on their foreheads, and the soulful expression of the eyes, rather than relying on thin ankles, fat calves, or expensive stockings for their charm.

We admit that is a matter of opinion.

A PRIMITIVE PIANO. BUY A REAL ONE.

Specializing in all instructive things the American Weekly section of tomorrow's BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER prints this interesting picture of a Rhodesian piano. This primitive brother of ours, on an instrument made of rawhide, bones and gourds, hammers out a very acceptable music.

Civilized beings, especially if they have children in the house, should have a real piano, remembering the words of Henry Ford who plays the violin: "Don't be content to listen, do something yourself, PLAY something even if you can't play too well."

THE LAST MILE

A Startling Story of Love and Evil That Teaches a Tremendous Lesson

Ethel Wishes to Pose as a Model

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Richard Walters, skilled young mechanic, is madly in love with Ethel Simmons, whom he believes to be almost saint-like. She is, however, quite the opposite, despite her tender years, and is carrying on an affair with wealthy Merton Nissinger. One night at the lake cottage with Ethel, Nissinger tattooed his initial over her heart. Walter meets his reporter friend, "Id Cavanaugh, in a speakeasy where Nissinger is having a drink with them. Nissinger is boasting that he tattoos his initial on all of his "sweeties." How do you do it?" Walters asks.

Novelized by LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE
(From the Play by John Wexley. Copyright 1930.)

CHAPTER 2

WHEN Walter got back to his own home he found his sister, Cicily, and his reporter friend, Sid Cavanaugh, sitting on the verandah.

He sat down to chat with them after he put up his car in one of the long row of garages back of the house.

"You couldn't have been very entertaining to have your sweetie send you home so early," Cicily remarked.

"She didn't send me home—I knew enough to come along without being told."

He muttered a hasty "Good night," and went up to his room, where he stood and stared for 20 minutes at a little snapshot picture of Ethel.

"Dick's fallen hard for a real girl," Sid told Cicily.

"What do you mean, real girl, Sid?"

"Oh, one he wouldn't neck with—the old-fashioned kind, who blushes and gets a thrill just by holding hands."

"Says she," Cicily said, with a laugh.

Ethel couldn't go to a picture the following Wednesday night with Walters. Mrs. Simmons explained, when he called, that she had gone from her designing class right out to Mrs. Shelton's to meet some of the church committee.

Left Disappointed

Disappointed, Walters left the string of inexpensive but pretty polka-dot beads he had brought for her, and went back down town.

He dropped into Jake's speakeasy. Sid Cavanaugh was there with Kirk Thurber and Merton Nissinger. Sid motioned Walters to a seat with them.

"Go on, tell us about it," Cavanaugh said to Nissinger.

"That's all—I just mark my girls—put a letter N on them—put my initial on a swell little skirt just the other night."

Walters, with a keen sense of humor, laughed at this.

"That's a hot one, Mr. Nissinger," he said, "tell me how you do it."

"Well," Nissinger said, with a grin and a rather chesty gesture, "it's just a fad of mine."

"That sure is a hot one," Walters agreed.

He envied Nissinger—envied him because he had money and an important position with the Paxton concern and an imported car. But he especially envied him because he could afford to play around with girls—could afford to make it worth their while to play around with him. Walters didn't pose as any Sir Galahad—he liked to chase girls as well as the next one, and admitted it.

He bought a round of drinks and then lent with his friend, Kirk Thurber.

"He hates himself," Cavanaugh muttered.

"I'd be chesty if I were in his boots—the lucky stiff," Walters nodded sagely. "Do you suppose he has settled a lot of janes like he says?"

"He might—and some sweet day he may have to pay for it, Dick."

"How?"

"Most of the girls who get away with their style of morals, or lack of morals, are mighty crafty little dames. Some day some bright girl will sue him for breach of promise—not only will her poor heart be quite busted, but she'll show her little heart to a jury of middle-aged old goats who'll get high blood-pressure and award her all she asks for.

"I wish I knew some Jane he'd done that to and then chucked off his list. I'd put her up to suing him just for the story it would make—Zowie! What a hot yarn!"

"All you think of is newspaper stuff," Walters reminded him.

"And all you think of is machinery."

"And Ethel."

"Who's that?"

Walters coughed as he sipped his drink.

"I forgot—I shouldn't even speak her name in a place like

YOUTH IN 'POISON PEN' CASE ENDS LIFE

Labor Chief Hears Ousted Phone Girl

Making the Most of Today's Dollar

Women Appreciate Guidance on Materials and Selection of Proper Dresses

(The third of a series of interviews with Massachusetts women leaders, giving their suggestions to those who buy goods and to those who sell them, concerning their mutual and vital problem of receiving and giving full value in every particular for every dollar spent. The fourth interview will appear in the next issue of the Evening American.)

By MRS. LUCINDA W. PRINCE

Founder Prince School of Store Service Education, and Director of Education for the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

EVERY WOMAN today wants to buy wisely. This is her problem, and she wants to meet it and do the very best she can with her income.

We hear a lot about budgeting, but the average woman still does not budget her income to make it reach over the whole amount of merchandise that her family will use during the year.

Budgeting is the only direct path to economic buying, because it considers the relation of income to total expenditure. This is something that most women do not consider, for they are tempted to spend all they have at the time on some attractive article, to the neglect of other articles to be bought later.

By that I do not mean that she should not buy the best things that she can afford, for these are the best value in the long run, but that buying should be studied as a whole and not be done without due thought for the whole.

MRS. LUCINDA W. PRINCE

Most good stores have very efficient personal service that includes budgeting service, but the general public does not know about it as fully as it should; perhaps the stores can do more to acquaint the consumer more fully with the practical help they give to the woman who wants to spend wisely and distribute her income to the best advantage.

For example, a woman appreciates expert advice of someone who knows materials and the proper occasions for wearing certain types of dresses before she buys. If she appears a great deal in public her needs are different from those of a woman who wants one good dress for occasional wear. Perhaps her income permits two less expensive dresses where another woman should buy one good dress.

I know from my contact with the National Retail Dry Goods Association that every store today is seeking to learn how it can best serve the consumer. Consumer desire governs the merchants' policy today as never before.

(44 cash prizes, aggregating $550, are offered to college attendants, members of the Women's Trade Union League, retail store employes and office workers, for the best, brief letters commenting on any ten articles in this series. BATTLE MAY BE CARRIED TO ALLEN

Leaders to Continue Fight if Sweetser Declines to Take Action

Miss Margaret Connolly, discharged telephone operator and president of the Telephone Operators Union, told her story to E. Leroy Sweetser, state commissioner of labor and industries at the State House today.

Accompanying her and also presenting labor's side of the dispute were James T. Moriarty, president of the Massachusetts branch of the American Federation of Labor; President J. Arthur Moriarty of the Boston Central Labor Union, Harry P. Grazes, business agent of the C. L. U., and Michael J. O'Donnell of the Teamsters' Union.

MAY GO TO ALLEN

If their plea for reinstatement fails, they intend to appeal to Governor Allen, according to plans revealed before today's conference.

The conference lasted half an hour, after which Commissioner Sweetser announced he would hear the telephone company's side early next week and then decide whether in his opinion labor laws have been violated.

VISIT TO STATE HOUSE

Miss Connolly, an operator at the Liberty exchange, was discharged because it was alleged she participated in a movement to obtain lower telephone rates—"an action obviously embarrassing and hurtful to the company employing her."

She was reported to have signed a petition filed with the Public Utilities Commission for a revision of rates, but it was learned she did not sign the petition. She did, however, accompany J. Arthur Moriarty to the State House the day the petition was filed.

Historic Arms Sought for Constitution

The National Rifle Association announced today it has been asked by Rear Admiral Louis M. Nulton, U. S. N., commandant of the Navy Yard here, to aid in collection of old flintlocks and pistols to be placed in the arsenal of the U. S. S. Constitution.

Examples of the type of weapons needed are on exhibition in the museum of the Springfield Armory at Springfield, but cannot be removed as they form part of a permanent collection of firearms manufactured by the armory since 1791.

However, there are a great many arms of the 1812-14 period in the hands of individuals throughout the country.

Woman Dies After Fall

Mrs. Catherine Stanton, 60, of Revere, died today in the Brockton Hospital as a result of head and neck injuries caused on Nov. 15 by a fall while visiting friends in Hanover.

BABY LOCKED IN BATHROOM

Three-year-old Eileen Levins of 73 Wentworth ter., Dorchester, wandered into the bathroom today and closed the door.

When she tried to get out again, the spring lock had snapped and all her tugging at the knob was in vain. She cried for her mother, who frantically hammered at the door and shouted instructions, but the baby could not manage the lock.

The mother telephoned for police assistance and Patrolmen Henry Johnson and John F. Dunn of the Mattapan station arrived. They asked for a ladder to enter by the window.

"No, no," urged the mother, "don't wait. Break down the door."

The door was smashed in and the girl ran sobbing to her parent.

Auction Boats Seized

Public auction of three boats seized recently, will be held Jan. 26 and 29 at Kelly's Wharf, Fairhaven, and Vineyard Haven, U. S. Marshal William J. Keville announced today.

JOHN DUNN, 4, of 2456 Washington st., Roxbury, proved to be a rubber ball yesterday when he fell three stories from a piazza in the rear of his home and escaped injury. The lad is being held at the City Hospital for observation. The photo-diagram shows how the lad fell. (Staff photos.)

Lad Uninjured in 3-Story Fall

Sister of Kaufman, Missing in Woods, Sure He Will Return

While searchers for Mitchell B. Kaufman, Boston rubber manufacturer, were endeavoring to place the report that a third shot was heard shortly after Kaufman disappeared, relatives continue to hold hope for his safe return from the woods at Jackman, Me.

Mrs. Raphael Sussman, of Foster st., Brookline, a sister, today said she had not lost hope for his return.

At Jackman, Sheriff Elton L. Markham, in charge of the search, declared the mysterious third shot had not as yet been accounted for.

A search of the territory surrounding a pine tree, the top of which had been broken off, is also being made.

Pilot Jack Dodge, flying low over the ground near Crocker Pond, spotted the broken tree.

It is believed that a person falling from the top of the tree would meet instant death.

Sheriff Markham is convinced the third shot was fired by a man who killed Kaufman accidentally or with homicidal intent, and then buried the body.

Search of the bottom of Crocker Pond is being made by two divers from Boston, and an electrical device invented by Orland J. Tewksbury, of Skowhegan is being used.

The device operates along the lines of an electro-magnet, and can locate metal through earth or water to a depth of 25 feet, according to its inventor. Tewksbury will attempt to locate Kaufman's rifle by means of his invention.

THIEF STEALS $10,000 LOAD

Driving off with $10,000 worth of cigars and cigarettes left in a parked truck in a Commercial st. garage, an unknown man early today worked a "racket" which is puzzling the police.

Last night two employes of the Germania Express Co. left the truck in a garage, saying that one would call for it in the morning. They agreed that the first man to reach the garage would take the truck to a store on Friend st. where the other man would report.

Accordingly, the first man arriving at the garage learned that the truck had gone. He went to the cigar store. His friend later reported to the garage, and was told that the truck had left. He, too, went to the agree' meeting place.

The two drivers then discovered an imposter had driven away with the truck and reported the theft to the police.

Legacy Proves Myth; Woman Is Defrauded

Found guilty of fleecing Miss Irma M. Brown of 15 Ellery st., Cambridge, of $200 on a claim of having due him a $50,000 legacy from Alaska, Herbert C. Hutchins of the same address today was placed on probation in Cambridge district court. Judge John M. Maloney ordered restitution made at $10 weekly and placed the man on probation for the six months.

Recount Sought in Recent Election

Although defeated by 2129 votes in the contest for the Republican nomination for mayor of Revere, William M. Keevey filed a petition for a recount today with the city election registrars. A recount petition was also filed by George E. Lund, candidate for the Republican nomination for councillor-at-large. Four were nominated, and Lund was fifth, 270 voted behind James F. Robertson.

Cambridge Safe Is Picked Up in Revere

The 1000-pound safe stolen last night from the office of the Lincoln Coal Co., Concord ave., Cambridge, was recovered today in the rear of the old cycle track, Revere.

Police are searching for two men in an automobile seen looking the building over before dusk last night in the belief they committed the robbery.

Boy Holds Up Fruit Store in Back Bay

A boy wearing a gray beret held up Stephen Lopez, owner of a fruit store on Norway st., Back Bay, today and robbed the cash drawer of $9. He was about 17 years old, dressed in a gray coat and dark trousers and carried a blue steel revolver, Lopez told the police. The boy ordered the storeman to lie down under the counter and stay there for 10 minutes while he made his getaway.

Reporter Dies

Wayne Lawrence Randall, Jr., 23, former Boston newspaper reporter, died suddenly today in New York. His parents, formerly lived in Nashua, N. H. Randall was formerly a student at Columbia University.

BODY FOUND AT HIS HOME WITH BULLET IN BRAIN

Father and Sisters Returning From Auto Ride Discover Suicide at Byfield

Allen E. Burke, 25, former Charles st. antique dealer, who was questioned and then freed in connection with "poison pen" letters written to a Boston society girl last February, was found dead in bed today in his home, Fatherland Farm, Byfield, with a bullet hole in the roof of his mouth.

Burke's father, Frank M. Burke, returned from an automobile ride with his two daughters, Constance and Betty, and receiving no answer from Allen, entered his room.

DIES INSTANTLY

Allen's body was found lying on the bed, a revolver on the floor beside him. According to police, he had placed the barrel of the .38 caliber revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger.

The bullet tore through the roof of his mouth, and lodged at the base of the brain, killing him instantly.

IN GOOD HEALTH

Burke, who has lived at home since he was freed of the "poison pen" letter episode here, was believed to have been in good health, and no motive for suicide had been advanced by police.

His mother had left home early in the evening, and the house was empty until his father's return at midnight. His father immediately summoned police, who notified the medical examiner.

A preliminary report of suicide was rendered by the medical examiner.

Court Orders Mayor to Act on License

By order of the Supreme Court today Mayor John J. Murphy of Somerville must give impartial attention to the application of Edward and Walter Jaffarian of Haverhill for a license to operate a miniature golf course on the Fellsway.

He is further ordered, in a writ of mandamus issued by Judge John C. Crosby, to investigate the application "with a genuine determination to grant a license, provided the applicants conform to the requirements of law."

Judge Crosby refused to grant damages to the Jaffarian brothers, explaining that they have another remedy—obtaining of a license, if so entitled.

Court Hears Stow Murder 'Confession'

Reading of the alleged confession of Joseph Belanski as the murderer of the elderly Stefanowicz couple in Stow, was completed in Middlesex Superior Court today and adjournment was granted until Monday.

The State will resume briefly with medical testimony, after which the case against Belanski will rest.

The State will resume briefly with medical testimony, after which the case against Belanski will rest. Belanski charges the alleged confession was obtained by third degree methods.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

And what is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip. If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Pictures of unusual animal poses are wanted, too. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use in the American.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or an unusual event news tip received, $10 for the next best, $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

Girl Loves 2 Who Are Married

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

Miss Fairfax broadcasts over Station WLEX every evening except Saturday and Sunday at 6:33 p. m.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am a young girl of 16 and very much in love with two men. These men are police officers and one of them always speaks very nice to me when I am alone, but when I am with my friends he acts very differently. The other I see once in a while, and he is very nice to me and I love him much better than first one. These two officers are both married and are about 30 to 35 years of age and have four children. The reason I like them is that both have automobiles and I always meet them on the sly. I would like very much if you would advise me what to do. My friends all know I love the second officer but the first one loves me for he calls me his best girl. I love to dance and I smoke and do not drink.

Beatrice Fairfax

You are a good advisor; please advise me.

A BELIEVER IN YOU

Dear Believer: I'm ashamed of you, and I'm going to scold you as my own daughter. Anyone who can write such a nice, intelligent letter in such a firm little hand ought to be ashamed to admit she can't get out of a love tangle with two married men. I do hope you believe in me enough to take a little good advice and cut these affairs off right now. The love a married man might have for a 16-year-old girl is certainly not going to do anyone any good, and please be modern and snap out of it. Nineteen thirty is an age of common sense and looking facts in the face not maudlin sentimentality that belongs to the mauve decade, so be yourself.

Reading to Please the Boy Friend

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I'm just as puzzled about something I don't know what to do, mother can't advise me and suggested I write you. Here's the problem—I'm engaged to a young man of 21 whom I've known since we were in high school together. He always did like me and I liked him, but he's just "nuts" on the subject of books even when he was in school. Now that we're engaged he wants me to be crazy about books too.

Now if he thinks I'm going to pass my married life listening to books, he's got a big shock coming to him. I love to dance and to movies and the theater, like to play cards and chat with friends—but, shameful or not—I've always hated reading. Do you think we'd be happy?

FRIVOLOUS

Dear Frivolous: Quite a bit of risk involved, it seems to me, in marrying a man who is deeply interested in a subject which plainly bores the girl to whom he is engaged. He will prefer quiet evenings at home with his favorite books, which he would like to share with his wife, and she will become restless, thinking of dances, movies, cards and visiting she'd like better.

MODERN PARIS -:- He Can't Make Up His Mind -:-

DRAWN BY Nell Brinkley

ARRAYED the world around are lovely, colorful woman faces for to admire. You are fascinated by one kind and your friend by another. Good that there are enough to go 'round—to satisfy the heart yen of Adam's brothers. You like velvet-dark Sorcha, dreaming and rather serious. You like serious girls, you say. Your friend, who himself takes his life seriously, HE weathervanes around invariably to the madcap breeze of the vert Dots of the world. One snug short man, fair and egg shaped, beams with all his heart on the elegantly tall damsel with devastating black eyes and snowy teeth. Sparkle and speed, the slow but "good as bread" little man adores. Funny Bill, with a sense of humor that works twenty-four hours a day, worships wistful blondes. Blondes with eyes—brows that bend up and violet eyes that beseech. Plain John, bashful and neutral, will come to the party if he knows there is going to be a "scrap" there. Midnight eyes and hair, mysterious and unknown as a jungle river in the dark—ah! The sweetest little face in the office smiles in vain for plain John. But John's friend, dissipee and coddled by all women from twenty to seventy, yawns at Mystery Wistful Blonde, Sparkle, Pertness, Greek Profile and all. But he goes all agog and sets her over cosmetic-less, innocent, unadorned, refined Youth and Simplicity YOU like a turn-up nose. Another man admires the antique straight one. You like quiet eyes à la Swanson. The friend from Missouri seeks to keep upon the poignant nose de Negri, le coquetterie, the friendly gaiety, the lively eyes of the French cast of face.

Most of you know what you like. Most of you have a favorite coat. For see the married men and the two-by-two's on the street.

But the chap on the fence doesn't know what he likes. He is dizzie! That is a horrible a man for whom there are too many pretty women in the world.

The Rhyming Optimist

What the Ebb Tide Bares

By ARLINE MICHAELIS

Ebb tide, bare sands, the wind sleet
And from the sea a murmur deep
That tells and faints away:
A paler saffron in the sky.
Then twilight a glory, soon to die.

Flares up across the sky
Ebb tide, bleak hour, a life swept clear
Of all that once it held most dear.
Scant hope for days to be
Yet, through the deepening dusk of night
Through sense of bafflement and blight
Comes distant melody

For, like the sure-returning tide,
Whose forces cannot be denied,
So strong are they, so vast,
All sorrows still must fade, must wane
And to sad lives joys come again
As long as time shall last.

Freckles Most Stubborn of Beauty Ills

FRECKLES, the most stubborn of beauty ills, are classed among minor infections of the complexion. They seldom appear on tough, leathery skin but pick out delicate, tenderskin as a camping ground. A simple bleaching lotion is made by combining lemon juice and rosewater, equal parts. Cold cream and powder act as protective agents against the ravages of wind and sunlight. Use a cream, instead of soap and water when coming in from out of doors.

ROUND SHOULDERS are due to ill health, lowered vitality or poor musculatory structure. The habit of throwing the head forward is often responsible. By carrying the chest high, posture takes care of itself.

Wearing the Wedding Ring

Third Finger of Left Hand Proper

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

Does it make any difference which hand the wedding ring is worn?

E. B.

Since it is the custom and [illegible] difficult to wear the wedding ring on the third finger (not counting the thumb) of the left hand this is where it should be worn.

The Formal Acceptance

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

My husband and I have been invited to a wedding. We want to write and accept the invitation, but do not know how to word the letter. In the same letter I want to tell them that my mother-in-law, brother-in-law, father-in-law and uncle are going to the wedding also. What shall I write?

MISS B.

I take it that the invitation is a formal one engraved and [illegible] the [illegible] person and invites you and your husband to the reception [illegible] separate invitation for the ceremony. THE LAST MILE -:- By Lewis Allen Browne this, I mean the girl I hope to marry—the most wonderful, the sweetest, the purest—"

"Hey, Jake, bring another long cold highball; Dick's burning up," Cavanaugh called.

Walters grinned sheepishly.

"Forget it, Sid—honestly, I'm no goofey when I think what a lucky devil I am to have such a sweet girl."

Her Line

The next night Ethel did go out to a picture with him.

"The beads were awfully pretty, Dick," thanks, awfully."

"I wish every head had been a big diamond, dear." Walters assured her, earnestly. He had never noticed how often she used the word "awful" or "awfully."

Ethel was thinking, "I wish they had been diamonds," but she smiled [illegible] at him.

"It isn't the value, in—intrinsic—you know what I mean; it isn't how much a gift costs, it is the spirit in which it is given that counts."

"Ethel, you would say that—it's just like you, always looking on the bright side, the clean and honest and pure side of everything."

After the movie they went into a corner drug store and had [illegible] and sodas. Ethel nibbled at her [illegible] and sipped the soda, and looked [illegible] at Walters.

"It tickles my nose—I'm not used to anything strong," she assured him.

He laughed at this. The idea of soda being strong amused him.

It was 11 o'clock when they got back to Ethel's home. Her mother came to the door.

"I was worried, dear; it was getting so late," she said.

Walters hopped to his feet at once rather distressed.

"It was a long picture, Mrs. Simmons," he explained, "and as it had started when we got in, we waited to see the first of it, then we stopped at Herbert's for something."

"That's all right Mr. Walters. I really don't worry when you are with Ethel. The poor girl studies so hard in her class of design and she is always busy on some church committee or other—it does seem to me they depend a lot on her in the church work for the young folks."

"It's wonderful for her to be so helpful in church work, Mrs. Simmons."

Stifled Giggle

"Oh, yes, she loves the church. I used to be so active in that work when I lived out in Hampton and before I got so I couldn't go about much. Poor Ethel studied all day twice that week and went out and rehearsed some church entertainment in the night. It's a good thing she can stay with Mrs. Shelton—she's a lovely young woman and [illegible] awesome, her husband being a traveling man."

Ethel coughed just a little [illegible] her handkerchief and managed to stifle the giggle she felt coming.

Walters was happier than [illegible] when he drove [illegible] Happy because [illegible] and him to [illegible] the picture and [illegible] seemed to [illegible] Ethel did [illegible] coming and [illegible] at it.

It was at [illegible] met Viola Forsaythe. Viola was a model in the studio of the school of design, posing for the advanced students who were skilled at painting or sculpture and were preparing to take advantage of these [illegible] as an adjunct to their profession of designing.

Ethel had never talked with her because she was not in any of the classes that used models, but she often saw her in the studios where she was taking some lessons in the grouping of colors, and had [illegible] her greatly.

You and I Are to Blame for Unemployment!

Employers Prefer Bumper Crops, Full Forces, Mounting Profits

—By B. C. FORBES—

B. C. Forbes

New York Nov. 22—We could, rather than employ men, but largely because we prefer to subscribe to the sentimentality engendered by unemployment this year.

Let's be bold enough to face the facts.

When things go wrong with us it is human nature to try to blame somebody else. That's what you and I have been doing lately.

A timid wage earner of Lewiston, Me., writes me that the Lewiston Journal, and the newspaper manufacturing city generally, are to blame for the unemployment. He says that the Journal has been preaching for years that the textile industry of New England must modernize its machinery, or the cotton manufacturing industry would migrate to the South, where labor is cheaper and more plentiful. He says that the Journal has been urging

CHANGES IN WALL STREET PRICES MOSTLY NARROW

New York, Nov. 22—Strength and activity of a small number of the mercantile stocks and specialties featured one of the dullest and slowest week-end markets of the present series.

Friday's closing bulge in the rails failed to carry through, and the oils and coppers were set back by the reports of price cutting at important consuming centers. In the absence of outside buying demand stocks churned around in a narrow price radius.

BEARS ARE CAUTIOUS

The bears were cautious. Leading shares suffered few losses of much more than a point, although some of the higher priced issues declined about 2 to 4. Sales totaled under 1,000,000 shares. The closing tone was heavy.

During the early trading some of the amusement, merchandising and auxiliary stocks made a little headway.

The week-end news was mixed, and in the main, failed to provide any fresh impetus to bullishness. The Mercantile Reviews reported continued quiet in retail trade. Recent activity in the merchandising shares, however, has been in anticipation of early signs of holiday buying.

In contrast to the rest of the list, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck actually closed about 2 points higher. Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the former, said that the company was beginning to feel a change in public apathy toward buying, and that final quarter business appeared to be fulfilling earlier promises. Woolworth, however, lost a point.

Some of the utilities rallied at the close, and North American and Columbia Gas closed steady.

Such stocks as United States Steel, American Can, Chrysler, Goodyear, International Harvester, Chesapeake Corp., Kennecott, Radio and Union Carbide lost about 1 to 1¼ points. American Telephone and General Motors netted losses were fractional.

RAILS' SIDE CHECKED.

Shares losing 2 to 3 included Air Reduction, Westinghouse, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, A. M. Byers, Auburn and Case. Allied Chemical declined 4 points and closed off 8¾.

The advances in the rails, which started late yesterday, ran into a piece of bad news in the announcement of the cancelation of St. Louis Southwestern's preferred dividend. There is a growing belief in Wall Street, however, that railway earnings statement's during the rest of the year will compare more favorably with last year than have previous statements.

Dividends, however, was not wholly unfavorable. Frank G. Shattuck declared in extra of 50 cents, in addition to the quarterly payment of 25 cents.

News from the steel industry was a little disappointing. Operations in the Youngstown area are expected to be reduced from 52 to 48 per cent of capacity next week, after this week's advance from 50. This, however, may be partly attributed to the Thanksgiving day holiday.

After several weeks of quiet, a better demand for electric equipment has appeared in the leading markets, Electrical World reports. Although current sales are still below normal.

NEW DIVIDENDS ARE ORDERED

Swift & Co. directors declared regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Jan. 1, 1931, to stock of record Dec. 10, 1930.

American Maize Products Co. declared regular quarterly dividends of 50 cents on the common and $1.75 on the preferred, payable Dec. 31 to stock of record Dec 12.

Scott Paper Co. declared usual semi-annual stock dividend of 2 per cent on common and regular quarterly dividend of $2 on preferred, common, payable Dec. 31 to stock of record Dec. 17. A similar stock dividend was declared in June, 1930, and June and December, 1929.

Frank G. Shattuck Co. declared an extra dividend of 50 cents in addition to regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, payable Jan. 10 to stock of record Dec. 30.

Boston & Providence Railroad declared regular quarterly dividend of $2 12½ a share, payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 30.

Will & Baumer Candle Co. declared regular quarterly preferred dividend of $2, payable January 2 to stock of record December 15.

Coca Cola International Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $2, payable January 2 to stock of record December 12.

Denies Richfield Oil Contracts Cancelled

William C. McDuffie, president of Pacific Western Oil Corporation, declared that contracts for the purchase of crudo oil with Richfield Oil Company were still in effect. His statement follows:

"Regarding published reports that Richfield Oil Company is cancelling crude oil purchase contracts, this does not affect our contract, which is non-callable. Contracts will have eight years to run."

Carnegie Coal Corp. Acquires Properties

Carnegie Coal Corporation, capitalized at $6,000,000, has acquired all of the coal holdings of the Carnegie Coal Company, formerly owned by John A. Bell, coal operator and banker.

The Manor Real Estate & Trust Company of Philadelphia, controlled by Pennsylvania Railroad, has acquired 12,000 acres of Bell coal lands in Allegheny and Washington counties.

Jantzen Holders Approve Increase

Stockholders of Jantzen Knitting Mills, Inc., on November 12 approved a plan for declaration of a 100 per cent stock dividend. By this action, the capital stock of the company is increased from 100,000 to 200,000 shares.

The stockholders also voted to increase the authorized capitalization to 300,000 shares which will leave 100,000 shares available for further corporate development.

Grains Are Higher in Chicago Market

Chicago, Nov. 22—Further gains were registered in grain prices today in spite of some profit-taking sales by recent buyers. Closing prices for wheat were up 1¼c to 2¾c, corn 2c to 2¾c and oats 1¼c to 1¾c. Rye was 1¼c to 2¼c higher.

Maine Central to Renew Bath Bridge

Washington, Nov. 22 (AP)—Reconstruction by the Maine Central Railroad of a bridge across New Meadows River between Brunswick and West Bath, Me., was approved today by the War Department.

REDS AND TIGERS IN GARDEN CLASH

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1930

'IGHT FANS NOW SEEM GATE-SHY

New York (INS)—Promoters prize fights the country over e in a dilemma. They have scovered, much to their dismforture, that the fistic mart has collapsed. The once illible American sporting pub- refuses to pay good money d waste their time watching cond-rate bruisers perform. hey have become gate-shy.

Foul fights, phony fights and resome exhibitions have brought out the current state of affairs. nd indications are that the boxg business will continue in the oldrums until such time as the hters get wise to themselves and ve the public a real run for their oney.

New faces are needed particularin the heavyweight division, hich has fallen to a very low ate. The public is apathetic ward the synthetic champion. ax Schmeling, who annexed the own in a foul fight with Jack harkey—one of those bouts in hich the fans were "stung" good nd proper. Since then Schmeling as refused to fight and Sharkey in such poor favor with the pube he is no longer demanding a uarantee of $100,000 for his ring ppearance and is clamoring for nothey chance to show he really s a first flight fighter.

The "big" boxing shows of late ave been financial flops. After he Sharkey-Schmeling fiasco the Madison Square Garden Corporation advertised an outdoor bout between Sharkey and Victorio Campolo. The public manifested such indifference toward the event that the Garden called off the bout and since then both Sharkey and Campolo have been out of work. It was a shock to the Garden, who thought the fans were 'bout55 on Campolo even if they were sore at Sharkey.

Tried Rosenbloom, Bain Battle

Not yet convinced that the public was "off" the current brand of fighters, the Garden tried to "sell" a big indoor show to the fans. The Rosenbloom-Bain match was advertised as a fight for the light heavyweight championship, even though Bain had no reputation as a fighter to speak of. The card drew less than 5000 paid admissions. It was another flop.

A short time ago Newark, N. J., promoters advertised a bout between W. L. ("Young") Stribling and K. O. Christner. They thought it would draw because Stribling had come back into the spotlight through knockout victories over Otto Von Porat and Fainting Phil Scott. But the advance sale was a "bust" and the proposed bout was cancelled with the explanation that Christner had hurt his knee or bruised his toe, or something.

Now they are saying that if the beak-busting business does not pick up there will be no annual March bout this winter. The Garden made a financial success of the Sharkey-Stribling bout in Florida a year ago last February, even though the affair itself was no great shucks as a fight, but last year they just about made expenses on the Sharkey-Scott thing. A bout between Stribling and Carnera next February might go good, were it not for the fact that Jimmy Maloney of Boston, a second rater, took adecision over Carnera recently. Then, too, many of Carnera's bouts have had a distinct phony flavor and the fans are wary of him.

It's a far cry to the days of Jack Dempsey and other real fighters—fellows with the "sock" who always gave the public their money's worth. The public was always willing to pay to see Dempsey, hardest hitter of modern times, go into action. Jack figured in all the "million-dollar gates." The Manassa Mauler and Gene Tunney drew $2,600,000 in their last fight in Chicago. Since then, with Dempsey out of the picture, the rock market has declined sharply.

The sad-visaged boxing promoters will simply have to dig up hitters. And furthermore the fights will have to be on the level and free from fouls. Jack Dempsey, Jack Delaney, Paul Berlenbach, Ruby Goldstein, Jimmy McLarnin, Luis Firpo and Kid Chocolate were—or are—drawing cards because of their hitting proclivities.

'PERES' CHOICE OVER FITTONS

By JOHN GILLOOLY

Some 15,000 football fans are expected to flock to Braves F ld tomorrow afternoon for the semi-pro "classic" of the year, the muss between the Pere Marquettes of South Boston and the Fittons of East Boston for the semi-pro championship of this neck of the nation.

The "Peres" are favored to cop the sandlot crown, but the Fittons have bolstered for the clash and, just as in college circles, will have that psychological advantage of being the "underdogs."

Special homage will be paid at the Tepee to a South Boston idol, a real one who has thrilled the fans for the past ten years on the gridiron, court and diamond, little "Billy" O'Leary, no bigger than Albie Booth and no less a football phenomenon in the opinion of all the Pere Marquette fans and a good many more who aren't Pere Marquette fans.

A collection, totalling more than $200, has been taken up, and Billy will be on the receiving end of a large bankroll and other gifts, all of which is no more than fitting for this young man is a very fine football player and a very clean-cut young gentleman in every respect.

The Peres will have A. Weston, Tony Plansky, Charley Murphy, Bernie Kilroy, Bill Obrenberger, Jack Donahue, Al Buhman, O'Leary, Connolly and Hurley to throw against the Fittons while the East Boston bunch has an assortment of stars in Henry Hormel, Rusty Yarnell, Bud Power, Bill Hafferty, Capt. Red Irwin, Maddy Sayles, Dave Guarnaccia, Howie Burns and Rock among others.

Billy Petrolle Mows Down McLarnin With Left Hooks

By HYPE IGOE.

New York, Nov. 22 (INS)—Billy Petrolle mowed Jimmy McLarnin down, but couldn't keep him there.

There never can be any question about the courage of either. They're gamecocks of the first water.

Petrolle whipped McLarnin with a left hook in a ten round bout at the Garden last night. Twice he floored. McLarnin with these hooks in the fourth round and Jimmy just did escape a complete knockout.

Petrolle admitted afterwards why he made two great mistakes. He said he allowed McLarnin to "get away from me twice," and so it seemed.

Right out of the box, in the first round, Petrolle rocked McLarnin with a left hook and Jimmy didn't shake off that sock. It was a stinging blow and cut Jimmy's eye, making him blink badly. Then came the second round, a desperstinging blow and cut Jimmy's let fly with the right hand punch that damaged his best bread winner.

Petrolle didn't give McLarnin a moment's respite. He made every punch count and for once Jimmy found a man who actually outslugged him.

Petrolle found that Jimmy could not get away from a left hook and too, he must have sensed that Jimmy's right was gone. When McLarnin was dropped for counts of eight and nine in the fourth he got up both times, giving a wonderful exhibition of pluck and generalship.

Before the end Jimmy's face was a crimson smear. It was a strange spectacle to see "Little Dynamite," the killer, eating some other fellow's punches.

N. U. Soccer Team Banquet, Dec. 3

Northeastern's undefeated soccer team will be feted at the annual banquet at the Harvard Club, Wednesday evening, Dec. 3. Although the season is officially over, the charity game fever has swept the squad, and if Greater Boston's other undefeated college eleven, Harvard should invite the Huskies to play a post-season contest, there is no doubt that the invitation would be accepted.

A meeting between Harvard and Northeastern this season would be a "rubber," as the Huskies beat the Crimson, 1-0, in 1928, while Harvard gained revenge last fall, 6-1.

REDS BATTLE TIGERS FOR CAN-AM LEAD

First place in the Can-Am League fight will be the issue when the Boston Tigers and the Providence Reds clash at the Boston Garden rink tonight.

The Reds have worked out a formidable offensive plan this season despite the loss of Art Chapman, Johnny Gagnon and McVicar from their 1929 sextet which wrested the Fontaine Cup from Tigers in the play-offs last spring.

The Providence puck-chasers have gathered some Canadian talent and manager Sprague Cleghorn has got a very strong sextet to offer.

One Red line is composed of two brothers, Art and George Giroux and a member of the famed family of Cooks, Bub and Bill. The Reds' Cook is Bub.

This trio was the property of the Canadiens and played together on the Pacific Coast a year ago. Then the Canadiens sent the threesome to Providence.

This line, used as a second string aggregation, scored five of a half-dozen goals when the Reds swamped New Haven 6-1, earlier in the season.

The Providence first line is composed of Hago Harrington, a local favorite; Gaudreault and Cormier, a veteran trio. Desmarais, Leslier and Carson, also veterans, will take care of the defense posts.

A large gathering will accompany the Reds from Providence and there should be quite a bit of excitement at the Depot rink when the rivals clash for the foremost berth in the lively Can-Am circuit.

ROCKNE WILL STAY AT N. D.

By ALAN GOULD

(AP)—Why, I have been frequently asked, does Knute Rockne remain at Notre Dame at a comparatively small salary when bigger, richer universities would pay double or treble for his services as football coach?

The answer to this borders the risk of prying into a man's private and personal affairs, yet Rockne's business is of sufficiently public character to warrant a few notations and remarks.

I do not, of course, delve into the details of the Rock's financial arrangements with Notre Dame. The understanding is he receives a salary of $10,000 a year. The rumors have been that he gets a "cut" of the gate receipts. He quite emphatically denied this and there is no reason to question the denial.

Rock probably could command a salary of $25,000 at perhaps three or four other universities. He once almost signed with Columbia at something like that figure. Yet, I believe, all things considered, he is in a better situation, financially, artistically and otherwise, as the mainspring of Notre Dame football than he would be anywhere else in the country.

Why? Because, first, Rockne and Notre Dame are as closely allied institutions as anything in sport. One without the other would be as inappropriate as the Athletics without Connie Mack, as Hamlet without the Dane.

ALL-AMERICA SEASON OPENS

(AP)—While the All-America argument is fast warming up along the football fronts, here are some of the outstanding players to be considered, and why:

Melvin Hein, center, Washington State, weighs 198 and stands 6.02. Noted for fine all-round play and special ability to intercept enemy passes. Singled out as one of the biggest individual reasons for Washington State's romp toward the Pacific coast crown.

Johnny Kitzmiller, Oregon's "Flying Dutchman," triple threat halfback, weighs 168. Carries main burden of Webfoot offense, doing most of the passing, kicking and running. Shines in a broken field and "throws strikes" when it comes to passing.

Marvan Jones, center, University of Utah, weighs 175. Best center every developed in Rocky Mountain district. Kingpin of great Utah line. Very speedy and does a lot of blocking for ball-carriers in addition to regular job. Has never been made a poor pass from center.

Bert Metzger, guard, Notre Dame, weighs 154 Despite size, rated by Rockne as one of best guards he ever developed. Most of Irish line plays directed through him, because of his almost perfect execution of charging and blocking jobs.

Wade (Red) Woodworth, guard, Northwestern, weighs about 190—Big, hard and fast. Powerhouse of the Wildcat line, along with Frank Baker, end. Feeds Siebert deadly tackler and blocker, can tote the pigskin.

George Van Bibber,—tackle,—Purdie—Mainstay of another great line. Has everything, plays brawn and speed. Helped whip Wisconsin and Baylor. Also a good kicker. Running mate last year of Red Sleight, All-American.

Louis Weller, the full-blooded Caddo Indian from Anadarko, Okla., weighs less than Albie Booth but he has built up a great reputation as a broken field galloper for Haskell Institute of Kansas.

The vital statistics show that the 135-pound Haskell field leader got off at least one long run in every game. His most spectacular afternoon was against Oklahoma Aggies when he returned a kickoff 60 yards for a touchdown and later ran 95 yards for a touchdown after receiving a punt. Last year Weller turned in the season's longest dash by romping 105 yards from kickoff for a touchdown against Creighton.

Among his numerous accomplishments, Weller can pass with either hand, but dispatches do not state whether he also gives the tribal war-whoop after each crossing of the enemy goal.

Speaking of tackles, Alabama's pair, Pooley Hudgins and Foots Clement, so named because of his No. 14 brogans, have been churning up a lot of Dixie gridiron shores as the principal "breakers" in the Crimson Tide.

Slington, by some critics, is regarded as the more accomplished lineman and a ranking All-America can candidate, but both have done outstanding work on a team that has swept loose everything it has faced so far.

Big Green Eleven on Way to Coast

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 22—Amid the farewell gestures of undergraduate supporters, Dartmouth's unconquered football representatives left on a special train, bound for Palo Alto, Calif., where they will oppose Leland Stanford in the Rose Bowl Stadium Nov. 29.

The official Dartmouth contingent, including players, coaches, managers and athletic authorities, numbered 55.

The only change in the Dartmouth entourage was the addition of Jim Laughton, third string tackle to the traveling list, boosting the squad total to 28.

O'Flaherty Loses

Worcester, Nov. 22—Jack Perry, Millbury heavyweight, won the decision from Pat O'Flaherty of Boston in the feature 10-round bout here.

B. C. to Prepare for H. C. at Mansfield

Three days before the Holy Cross game, the Boston College grid team will go to Mansfield Tavern, Mansfield, and remain there until the day of the game, it has been learned at the Heights.

but occasionally the sun broke through and bathed the blue and white saucer with its rays. The striped turf looked green and verdant, although it contained the direct marks of previous battles.

HARVARD CONFIDENT

John Harvard was reported to be brimming with confidence despite their mediocre showing during the season. The Crimson has fallen before the Army, Dartmouth, Michigan and Holy Cross. They had not won an engagement in the previous five Saturdays but they were said to have polished for today's game with Yale, the one contest that really matters in "Big Three" circles.

Elihu Yale's showing has been much better, although last Saturday Yale displayed signs of fagging when they barely nosed out Princeton 10 to 7 in a battle that had them dizzy and on the ropes at the finish. Yale has been tied by the Army but has been beaten only once this year—by Georgia, who downed them 18 to 14.

A deluge of forward and lateral passes by Harvard was looked for by Yale. Barry Wood, Harvard quarterback, is touted as a whiz with the passing attack. However, Yale had an ace in the hole in the person of Albie Booth, their flashy ball carrying quarterback. Yale may open up with forward passes, too, for Benny Friedman, All-American star, has been coaching the Bulldog in the overhead game.

Amid a thunderous cheer, the full Harvard squad of 35 players, in their crimson striped moleskins and crimson jerseys, pranced out on to the turf at 1:30 p.m. They immediately began warming up for the fray, booting, catching and throwing pigskins in all directions.

Many of the Harvard girl rooters were dolled up in crimson gowns, crimson hats and crimson feathers. This contrasted with the all-blue layouts of the young women who were out to cheer for good old Yale.

Yale's squad, led by Capt. Fay Vincent, jogged out on to the field at 1:40 p. m., and did the spectators on the Yale side roar! There was plenty of enthusiasm on tap at this, the forty-ninth meeting of the two institutions.

BAND STIRS CROWD

Further zip was lent the scene when the Yale sixty-piece band marched out and blared away with great gusto. The cheer leaders got busy on both sides of the gridiron and roused the stands into a deep and varied brand of encouragement to the competing elevens.

Harvard's band, in crimson coats and white duck trousers, stamped out and showed that it could compah with just as much pep and vigor as the Yale musicians. They wheeled out a huge drum, fully six feet in diameter with a big "H" lettered upon it and two drummers beat upon its sides with unrestrained gusto as the band marched back and forth and between the goal posts.

FORM "ELI YALE"

Then, as the crowd cheered, the Harvard band stood in formation that spelled "Eli Yale" and blared away with evident relish as the band leader swung his baton in all directions.

"Cheers for Harvard" and "Cheers for Yale" were given. And then, a few minutes before 2 p. m. The rival captains came to the center of the gridiron and conferred with the officials. Then the Yale and Harvard teams lined up and the battle was on.

even with Yale, and his Crimson representatives have not met with a defeat at the hands of the Elis since Capt. Charles Brickley's eleven was on the short end of the 1927 encounter in the Stadium.

ELIS SEEK REVENGE

Coach Mal Stevens of Yale has never beaten a Horween-coached Harvard eleven, despite the fact that he has despatched heavy favorites in Crimson games for two years. The Elis are wary of Harvard, but there is an air of confidence radiating from the Harvard squad, which adds to a warning to Yale. On the other hand the Yale coach and their numerous advisers appear nervous.

CROWD STARTS EARLY

The crowd began to arrive at the Bowl early after noon, and although many glimpsed at the Harvard-Yale soccer game, it was played on the field adjoining the Bowl, thousands were in their seats an hour before game time.

HARVARD OUT FIRST.

The Harvard squad was the first to put in an appearance. Capt. Ben Dickson and his men charging out on the field for their warming up session and devoted their time to passing and kicking.

Charlie Devens, who broke his leg in the Dartmouth game, did not appear, although he was told by Dr. Thomas K. Richards that he could go in for one play, which would entitle him to his letter.

ELIS WILDLY CHEERED.

Just as the Crimson squad retired to their under-the-Bowl dressing room for their final instructions, Yale came on the field and were tendered a wild reception by the Yale stands.

FORDHAM TEAM IN FINAL TILT

Polo Grounds, New York, Nov. 22 (AP)—A crowd of about 15,000 turned out today to see Fordham's football team wind up its season against Bucknell. Adam Sicewicz, star end, was held out of the Fordham starting lineup because of injuries. Capt. Anthony Sinko, Bucknell back, also was out with injuries.

Fordham took the kickoff and marched straight down to a touchdown. Sinko's plunge brought the ball straight first downs, then Murphy went through his left tackle for 40 yards. Wisniewski missed the point.

Bucknell came back with a couple of first downs, but the attack faded out near midfield. A punt gave Fordham the ball on the Bucknell 20 yard line just before the period ended.

Score, end first period: Fordham, 6; Bucknell, 0.

A bad pass from center cost Fordham 20 yards at the start of the second period. Neither side could gain and a punting duel followed. The ball changed hands rapidly without bringing much advantage to either team. Bucknell punted. Capt. Anthony Sinko, Bucknell back, also was out with injuries.

Fordham took the kickoff and marched straight down to a touchdown. Murphy's plunge brought the ball to the 40 to the 15-yard line, where he was run outside. Vodoklys and Ryder brought the ball to the B. U. four-yard line as the half ended.

ARMY BATTLES URSINUS TEAM

Michie Stadium, West Point, N. Y., Nov. 22 (AP)—The Army displayed its skirmish formation today against the football assault of the Ursinus College of Collegeville, Pa., preparing for the major engagement next Saturday against Notre Dame in Soldier Field, Chicago.

Maj. Sasse, Army coach, started an entire second string array.

FIRST PERIOD

Shortly after the period opened, Army marched from its 28-yard line to the Ursinus 42-yard stripe. Then Ursinus took over the remaining distance in one play breaking through the line and running for a touchdown.

The attempt to add the extra point failed. The Ursinus line stiffened after the score and neither team could make any progress during the rest of the period. Which ended with Army leading 6 to 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Ursinus tried a pass after a punt had gone outside on the Pennsylvanian's 5-yard line early in the second period and Miller, sub for Lazar, intercepted. Glattly took it over in two plays. The point again was missed. A kicking duel punched Ursinus far back and a cadet drive from mid field sent Marshall over with the third Army touchdown.

The period ended a few minutes later with Army leading 18 to 0.

EVERETT TEAM LEADS IN 3RD

After battling on even terms for the first half of the game, Everett high scored a touchdown in the third period and was leading Prince top high school of Chicago, 6 to 0.

BROWN CLASHES WITH WILDCATS

Providence, Nov. 22 (AP)—Tuss McLaughry started his Brown reserve team against New Hampshire today in a game that was scheduled as a "breather" on the Bruins' schedule.

The regulars were ready to rush into the game if the Wildcats caused as much trouble as they did last year, when Brown was held to a 14-7 score.

FIRST PERIOD

New Hampshire started stopping a march by Brown second team which started at the Bruins' 72-yard stripe and continued to the Wildcats six-yard line, countered on the Bears and launched a 86-yard drive, ending in Eustis going over for a touchdown. J. Slack kicked for the extra point. New Hampshire led, 7-0 lest. Coach McLaughrey then rushed his first string team into the game.

SECOND PERIOD.

Brow , with her regulars on the field, started an attack against the New Hampshire line which carried them from their own 47-yard mark to the Wildcats eight-yard stripe, but on the next play Brown lost for yards.

A forward pass was incomplete and New Hampshire, awarded the ball punted out of danger. Brown, a few minutes later launched another drive, but when they reached the shadow of the New Hampshire goal line the Wildcats held for down and prevented a score. The half ended.

Score—New Hampshire7, Brown 0.

N'WESTERN AND IRISH BATTLE

except for one star of each team.

"Galloping" Joe Savoldi, Notre Dame fullback, was missing because of his withdrawal from school. Pug Rentner, Northwestern's sophomore fullback and forward-passing star, also was out of the starting lineup, because of injuries.

The game was fought before a crowd of 50,000.

FIRST PERIOD

Both coaches started their first string teams. Notre Dame won the toss and Capt. Tom Conley elected to defend the south goal. Conley kicked off for Notre Dame, to Bruder, who brought the ball back 22 yards to the Northwestern 28-yard line. Russell and Bruder failed to gain and Bruder punted to Notre Dame's 43-yard line. Schwartz raced around right end for 19 yards.

Notre Dame dre wa 15 yard penalty for holding. Mullins got six yards at center, and a lateral, Schwartz to Mullins, took the ball to Northwestern's 29-yard line.

Schfartz smashed through center for nine yards, going to the 20-yard line. Schwartz added four through the same place and Riley replaced Eng-Britzen at left tackle for Northwestern.

Four Northwestern tacklers removed Schwartz for a five-yard loss. Bruder fumbled and recovered for a yard loss. Hanley batted down Schwartz' long pass over the goal line to Conley and Northwestern took the ball on its 20-yard line. Bruder and Russell made center for a first down on Northwestern's 39-yard line. Russell hit center for eight more and was tackled so viciously by Schwartz that he was knocked out. Russell grabbed five more for a first down on Northwestern's 43-yard line but Northwestern lost ten yards on a penalty.

Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards for holding and Northwestern had a first down on Notre Dame's 48-yard line. Bruder got five and Bruder three. Then Bruder kicked to Notre Dame's 6-yard line.

Carideo returned the punt and Hanley fumbled, but recovered on Notre Dame's 47-yard line. Russell cut through center for three after Bruder had made two. Then Schwartz tossed a long pass to Brill and caught it on Northwestern's forty-yard line. Brill was tackled with the score Notre Dame 0, Northwestern 0.

SECOND PERIOD.

Kosk, replaced Hunt at left end for Notre Dame. Brill lost six yards with Northwestern's runners smearing him. Clark intercepted a pa s in midfield and ploughed to the Notre Dame 49-yard line.

Russell made four and Hanley swept left end for five, going 43 Notre Dame 6-yard line. Russell got a yard at center. Notre Dame was offside, suffering a penalty of five yards. The ball was placed on Notre Dame's 26-yard line.

Bruder made two yards around Notre Dame's right end. Russell ploughed center twice for six yards, putting the ball on Notre Dame's 17-yard line. Russell then plunged for a first down on Notre Dame's 9-yard line. Russell bowed center for three yards. Russell and Bruder smashed through to Notre Dame's 2-yard line. Russell got a yard to go on fourth down.

Russell fumbled and Notre Dame recovered on its 3-yard line.

Carideo punted from behind his own goal line to Hanley on downed on Notre Dame's 34-yard line. Northwestern was penalized five yards and Conley made a pass to Baker, but the ball was caught out of bounds.

Notre Dame was penalized for offside. Placing the ball on its 29-yard line. Hanley tossed a pass over Bruder's head to Baker, who raced over Notre Dame's goal line, Northwestern was penalized five yards for two incomplete passes.

Riley downed Bruder's kick on Notre Dame's seven-yard line. Carideo tried each end without gaining. Carideo tried to run from behind his own goal line, and was smashed down and fumbled. Baker recovered for Northwestern on Notre Dame's five yard line. Dilley replaced evans at right guard for Northwestern.

Russell chipped center for a yard and banged center again to Notre Dame's two yard line. Bruder took the ball to the one yard line but fumbled with Mullin recovering for Notre Dame.

Wood Leads Field in Oregon Open

Portland, Ore., Nov. 22 (AP)—Nine amateur and professionals today were ready for the second 18 hole lap of the $2500 Oregon open golf championship.

On the first 18 holes yesterday Craig Wood, New York professional, led the field with a one stroke margin in 69 three under par.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Gene Sarazen, New York, had cards of 70. Tied with 71 were Ted Ray and Clarence Clark, Tulsa Okla., tied for third place.

Teams Will Battle for Medford Title

South Medford A. A. will play the West Medford A. A. for the championship of Medford, at Playstead Park, at 3 o'clock. The receipts will be donated to an injured player. Both teams have been rivals for years.

Mayors Play Bradford Course

The miniature golf course in the Hotel Bradford seems to have a distinct appeal to dignitaries.

During the past week Claude Davidson, proprietor, had among his players three mayors and one acting mayor.

A foursome was played in which Barry Egan and Joseph Smith, former lord mayors of Cork, Ireland, and John F. Fitzgerald, former mayor of Boston, and William G. Lynch, acting mayor in Mayor Curley's absence, participated.

Acting Mayor Lynch won the contest.

Jim Keesey Bought by San Francisco

Jim Keesey, Philadelphia Athletics' recruit first baseman, has been purchased by the San Francisco Seals for $10,000, going back to the Pacific Coast League, from whence he came to the A's.

Keesey showed well for Connie Mack the brief time he was permitted to play, but there was no chance for him to displace Foxx and he will have fuller opportunities to show his worth with San Francisco.

Saints and Owls to Play Tomorrow

The St. Ambrose C. C. of Dorchester will play the undefeated Owl Club of Dorchester Sunday afternoon at the Dorchester town field, starting at 2:30 p. m. The Owl Club has yet to be scored upon, and a great game is in store for the fans of the Dorchester district.

Fleet Leads B. C. Sophs to Track Win

The Boston College (sophomores), beating their rival classmen to a fare-thee-well, took first place in the interclass meet with a total score of 30 points. The juniors were second with 37 freshmen third with 47, and seniors last with 48.

Dixon of the frosh was the high scorer with three firsts. His time in the hundred and the quarter was remarkable, considering the slow track He did 10⅘ for the dash and 56⅘ for the double furlong. He was closely followed by Phil Coubig, who won the discuss and the shot.

Smith of Sox Goes to Indianapolis

George Selby Smith, a pitcher who started on the Louisville, Ky., sandlots and later served Detroit, Toronto, the Boston Red Sox and Seattle, will be close to home next season, having been released by the Red Sox to Indianapolis in part payment for Rabbit Warstler, the Hoosier shortstop who went to Boston.

OHIO MATMAN SHOWS GREAT FORM IN GYM

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Sherry, Ohio State wrestling champion, who clashes with Sonnenberg in a world's title bout at the New Boston Arena on Thanksgiving Night, displayed sensational form during a stirring workout at Arthur Bloom's Gym in Bowdoin sq.

Sherry took on three different sparring partners and tossed them all in record time. In each case it was a crushing headlock which enabled Sherry to upset his spar mate.

It will be remembered that it was Sherry's headlock which caused Sonnenberg so much trouble at the Arena. They enabled Sherry to gain one fall and had him well on the way to a victory when interference by Referee Leon Burbank gave Gus the Goat the winning fall.

Jack Conway

Sherry displayed plenty of wrestling finish in his workout at Bloom's Gym. I consider Jack a much more polished wrestler than Sonnenberg.

It is also apparent that Sherry intends to keep crowdin' Gus. He believes this is the best way to offset the champion's flying tackle.

Sherry is the best wrestler Sonnenberg has been called upon to meet since he won the title. There is a strong feeling in wrestling circles that the world's title will change hands on Thanksgiving Night. Sonnenberg, in the opinion of many keen judges of wrestling, has tired under the strain of continuous campaigning and is ripe to be knocked off by the colorful Sherry.

Sport Writers Give Views on Boxing

Boxing writers connected with the Boston newspapers appeared before the committee which is investigating boxing and wrestling in Massachusetts.

During the past two weeks the committee has interviewed members of the boxing commission, boxing officials, promoters, managers and sports writers.

The committee has been told that the license fees of preliminary boxers should be reduced from $25 to $5. Consideration in the way of a reduced license fee has been asked for small clubs operating in large cities.

It has also been recommended that Massachusetts allow 15-round bouts where a title is at stake.

It is also likely that the committee will recommend that the findings of the judges and referee at a bout be made public.

Maloney and Risko Begin Training

Jim Maloney and Johnny Risko have started training for their 10-round bout which will be staged at the Boston Garden on December 5, for the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston Evening American.

Maloney will condition himself at Boston's gym, Quincy. It was there that Shamus got into such perfect condition for his meeting with Primo Carnera. Manny Gallagher, Joe Barlow and Tiger Johnson will act as sparring partners for Maloney.

Risko has started work at a camp on Lake Erie. Danny Kramer says the Cleveland heavyweight will be in the best condition of his career when he tackles Maloney.

Fuller Seeks Another Bout With Callahan

Phil Buccola announces he is ready to sign Sammy Fuller for another bout with Andy Callahan. These boys recently furnished a torrid mixup at the Arena. Buccola points to the fact Fuller gave Callahan a return match when the latter lost at Tiverton, R. I. He now asks for similar treatment for Fuller.

HORTON SMITH'S GOLF LESSONS

Famous Young Musician Professional Illustrates and Describes the Mechanics and Technique of Play

IMPORTANCE OF POISE and GROOVED SWING

The Golf Monthly of Edinburgh observed recently that "Americans are a successful, confident, and hopeful people, enjoying their lives thoroughly." Well, the picture, just to the right, indicates that Walter Hagen personifies that conception of American golf. Tradition has it that the "Haig"—as he stood on the first tee at Sandwich, England, ready to drive off in a British Open championship—remarked:

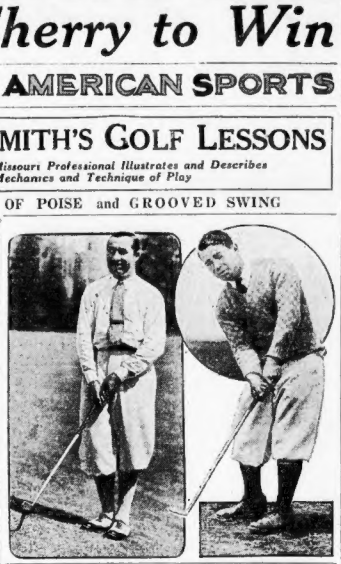
"I wonder who is going to be second?"

Such confidence may be a bit too cocky, but if that attitude be modified it does bring poise that is so useful in all forms of competition. And one of Sir Walter's golfing assets is extraordinary poise.

More and more emphasis is being put on what the mind has to do with the game. Just for instance, the beginner is often fairly successful until his friends get hold of him. They tell him golf is very difficult, etc. The result is the novice goes all to pieces and is ready to listen to and try any panacea proposed by erratic advisers. He becomes a victim of "nerves"—surely an opposite to poise.

By the way, Gene Sarazen is pictured here demonstrating that if the swing is grooved properly, it is possible to close the eyes and make a perfect shot.

Too much stress is laid upon keeping your eye on the ball. If instructors would advise keeping your mind on where the ball is, more good shots would result. It is unnecessary to stare the ball out of countenance.



With advanced pupils I would have them shave the ground back and forth, keeping the eyes shut. When that can be done correctly, I know the proper swing has become a habit, just like walking, skating, dancing, etc.

40 BOUTS FOR ST. JOE'S SHOW

Light heavyweights will feature the amateur boxing tournament at St. Joseph's T. A. Society at Mechanics Building tonight, still Cuddy declares that some of the best of the simon pures have entered in the show and that non-red-hot action is expected.

There will also be bouts at 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds. There are a flock of good entries in each of these classes.

It is expected that there will be at least 40 bouts.

The winners in the various classes will have a chance to compete for the right to represent this country in the coming international bouts at the Boston Garden.

RADIO Personalities

A broadcasting station in Buenos Aires was closed eight days as punishment for transmission of excessive advertising. The Rise of the Gold ergs" popular NBC serial has become a full length play. Wax used on Jan. 1 last week-ends a distinction for a radio sketch.

WILLIAM C. HOLLY, MUNDAY NBC football announcer, was dubbed "Bullet Bill" because of his rapid delivery of songs by recording, three or four renditions and using a new technique for each. Playing the records at home aids he in selecting the best.

HARR" SALTER has eight men in his Silvermith Orchestra, but the group sounds like an orchestra of 25 pieces. Harry was the first musician director of WABC. . . . EWARD THORGERSON says the one thing he doesn't like about Russian music is that you can't tell when its going to end. Which doesn't alter the fact that it's good music.

Radio Forum and the Chicago Civic Opera Head Tonight's List

Saturday evening of late has become perhaps the most attractive radio night of the week for diversified features. Aside from the late dance programs and the light entertaining features such as the Mirth Quakers the Rin-Tin-Tin Thriller, the Necco Party, Chevrolet Chronicles and "Show Boat," there are the more classical programs such as the General Electric program, the recent weekly presentation of the Chicago Civic Opera Co. and "Careless Love," a story of the South. An educational highlight is the Radio Forum feature.

Tonight the Radio Forum offers Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the Interior, who will tell of the results achieved by the White House conference on Child Health. WNAC will carry the feature heard from 9:30 to 10 p. m. As chairman of the group, formed by President Hoover more than a year ago, Dr. Wilbur has directed the 2000 members in their efforts to better the health and welfare of the country's children.

For the first time the opera, "Lorenzaccio," will be offered to the radio audience when it is broadcast over WBZA from 10 to 11 p. m. tonight by the Chicago Civic Opera Company. This is the second time this French opera by Ernest Moret has been presented in this country, having been offered earlier in the season by the Chicago opera.

Prize Winner

MARIE HEALY, coloratura soprano, who is a feature of the Atwater Kent Radio Hour program, to be heard Sunday evening over WEEI at 9:15. Miss Healy is a native of Manchester, N. H., and a prize winner in the first National Radio Audition.

Concerning Radio

Edited by BILL WHIPPLE

It is a very human characteristic to knock something or somebody; nothing in this best of all possible worlds is ever quite as we should like to have it, and, according to our own opinions, had we the doing or the making of whatever particular thing it is that we are criticising at the moment, how much better it would have been accomplished. Yes, sir, just like that!

And we doubt if there is anything in this year of grace nineteen hundred and thirty which lends itself to the anvil chorus and the padded hammer as does radio. Just why radio program sponsors' ears haven't all shriveled up with the heat long ago can be for no other reason than that it is simply a delusion that our ears burn when we are being talked about.

But the general public is different. Ah! the voice of the people; the blood-chilling cry of an outraged populace. In a nutshell thing; thrones are overthrown, prohibitionists cast frightened glances over their shoulders, reporters turn pale, once the public is thoroughly aroused.

And, it is our duty to inform you, fifty million ear-cuppers voices are now being heard throughout the land; it is only a murmur at present, but growing in volume as each day passes. We have no monarch to behead, the prohibitionists are in bad but seem safe for a while; the radio program sponsor, however, has good cause to shiver and will do well to list to the voice of aroused mob.

Before it is too late and chaos exists throughout our fair land, let these haughty commercialists who titter the air in the name of entertainment mend their evil ways and give more of entertainment with less of commercial announcements. This is our first warning; a sort of prophetic declaration given in a friendly spirit. The people are shouting for relief from long-winded discourses concerning products; they cannot stand it much longer. Take heed, oh, sponsors, ere you are stewed in your own juice—or just plain stewed!

Down Where the Hot Tamale Florishes

Dixie is stepping out in the radio world, and, incidentally, what a great thing broadcasting has become as a means of promoting international good will. We are glad to do our little bit by publishing the following letter we just received from our neighboring republic:

"Dear Sir: Radio station XEW of Mexico, recently put in operation, transmits daily at 11 o'clock p. m., Central Standard Time, during 15 minutes, Mexican music and song, as well as news of the day. News is broadcast in Spanish and English. Each bulletin lasts 15 minutes.

Features of the station are:

XEW—Name: La Voz de la America Latina desde Mexico.

Wave: 384.7—780 kilocycles.

Power: Five kilowats.

The transmission contains no commercial advertising at all. They are intended for the information of the people of the U. S.

The owners of this station have requested this office to ascertain how the transmissions reach Boston, and should very much appreciate information, as well as suggestions.

What do you say, subscribers, if we widen in and send them a coupl of lines.

When "I-told-you-so-ers" and the negative minded of the Gay Nineties were blurbing about the uselessness of the then popular songs little did they expect those songs would outlive them. Yet they have, and with a decided affirmativeness. Tunes such as "Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage," "On a Sunday Afternoon" and "Tell Me a Pretty Maiden" are still heard in the drawing rooms. Which brings us to the thought that in Fuller program will offer a Harry Von Tilzer medley WBZA at 6:30.

What a question! "Is There Any Humor in Ireland?" This topic will be discussed by Patrick MacGill, Irish writer, who hopes to talk his way across the continent and back in two years when he gives his first American radio address over an NBC WEAF network tonight at 8 o'clock on the Salon Singers program.

Arturo Toscanini, one of the greatest living conductors of today makes his radio broadcast appearance of the season when he directs the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra over the CBS network, including WNAC from 3:15 p. m. tomorrow. During the intermission Olin Downes will comment on the program. Compositions heard will be Cherubini's "Anacreon" overture, Mozart's "Haffner" symphony and Strauss' "Ein Heldenleben, the last named being the work on which Toscanini will lay special stress.

THE WEATHER

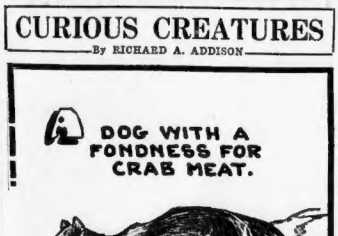
CURIOUS CREATURES

—By RICHARD A. ADDISON



PORT OF BOSTON

As a result of slow progress in towing the crippled steamer Angelos, of Boston, which broke her tail shaft while carrying a $500,000 cargo from Buenos Ayres, Montevideo and Santos for Boston, arrangements are being made to substitute for her on her outward sailing.

John J. Halloran, manager of the American Republics Line, operated by C. H. Sprague & Son, left for New York to get a substitute steamer.

When she broke down, the Mine Sweeper Grebe was sent to her aid. She was later turned over to the Coast Guard Cutter Sebago, which is towing her to Norfolk.

Thursday noon she was 676 miles southeast of Cape Henry. At the rate she was making it will be Tuesday or Wednesday before she reaches Norfolk.

ARBOR CATCH

Bedecked with a bay tree in its bow, branches of which were a symbol of victory to ancient Greeks and Romans, the beam trawler Fisher arrived here after a voyage crowned with unusual success. The little laurel, measuring about six feet, was hauled up with a load of fish about 25 miles northeast of the lightship. Foliage, still retaining its natural green, indicated that it was not in the water long.

PATIENT CROWDS

Awaiting the arrival of the barges and tug seized by the coast guard as a "rum fleet," hundreds of persons lined the bridge nearby the Appraiser's Stores, where it was reported they would be brought for unloading.

From early morning to late twilight, attracted, first by the waiting movie and newspaper cameramen, persons stood several deep. The crowd dispersed when Thomas F. Finnegan, deputy collector, arrived in the W. W. Lufkin from down the harbor and politely informed them that there would be "nothing doing" until today.

SOVIET CARGO

After a stiff battle from the Black Sea port Archangel, with a cargo of 1586 cords of Russian pulpwood, delivered by the Soviet, the British steamer Tarnasy arrived here and is discharging part of her cargo at the Mystic Wharf 45 house. She unloaded 1490 cords at Portland, Me., before coming here.

SHELL PLATE

A new shell plate, to replace one punished when she was in collision with a United States army engineer dredge in New York, and scraping and painting, will put the K. I. Luckenbach in first-class shape here. She was lifted into the floating drydock at Simpson's yard, East Boston. She is engaged in intercoastal service to the port of Boston.

TUG O'WAR

With tug boat companies vieing with each other for supremacy with each addition to their services it will not be long before the tug boats will be the aristocracy of the harbor it is being said along the waterfront. Mechanical and physical improvements in the more recent tugs have been marked by port authorities.

ICE BREAKER

From breaking ice to fishing for mackerel may seem a distant cry, but the John H. Cochrane, fisherman, is going to do just that. At the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp. plant, East Boston, it was learned she has been chartered for ice breaking in the Charles river this winter. A bow ice breaker and iron sheathing are being put on her. She has been mackerel fishing out of the Fish Pier.
